KINZUA DAM REPORT

Pool level 1311.41 feet (desired summer pool level 1328 feet; maximum level 1365 feet). Upstream water 41 degrees, downstream water 45 degrees. Warren gauge 4.56 feet and falling.

WARREN COUNTY

Representatives of several refuse collectors meet with the Warren County Planning Commission to discuss the county refuse study. Another meeting is being arranged to bring together the county and borough planning commissions, the refuse collectors and Arthur Reed, the planning consultant who made the study.

PENNSYLVANIA

The Senate sends a bill abolishing the Department of Internal Affairs back to a conference committee due to a dispute over what to do with the Bureau of Topographic Survey.

The House approves five bills that were part of a 14-bill package of implementing legislation to a new judiciary article in the state constitution.

The Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission outlines a broad program aimed at relaxing racial tensions in the state's capital city.

THE NATION

A small explosion rumbles through a burning coal mine, moments after mine officials express only slight hope for the safety of 78 men trapped 800 feet below the surface.

Federal officials push forward plans for a store counter system of registration of all purchasers of firearms.

President-elect Richard M. Nixon makes plans for early receipt of task force reports on labor-management relations and fiscal policy.

A federal judge denies a request to delay the Dec. 1 effective date of a government guideline against sex discrimination in help wanted ads.

The West Virginia coal mine accident that trapped 78 men some 800 feet underground "is just one too many," Rep. John H. Dent (D-Pa.) says.

Mental patients too ill to send home are shuffled from ward to ward or hospital to hospital to dampen the impact of a ward attendant's strike at three New York State hospitals.

THE WORLD

The top 10 financial nations are reported agreed on a package deal that would devalue the French franc and give France massive credits.

Nigeria and the Soviet Union sign their first bilateral economic and technical assistance agreement, a $140 million package of long-term credits formalizing the close relationship that the Soviets have been building up.

The U.S. Command says American artillery fired back into the northern half of the buffer strip for the first time since the Nov. 1 bombing halt.

Charles de Gaulle turns 78--and on the home political front there's little to celebrate or be cheery about.

Big Ben is tilting toward the Thames but officials say you needn't worry too much about it right now.

SPORTS

The 1968-69 basketball season gets under way tonight with Eisenhower and Tidoute hosting independent opponents. The Grapepickers of North East, Pa., provide Ike's opposition while Jamestown, Pa. meets Tidoute.

It was a very good year in Eisenhower's football history, for despite a 2-3-2 record, the Knights got grand performances from several key players.

Joe Namath has some answers to the current question of what's happening to pro football quarterbacks. Broadway Joe's knees are among the most fragile in the profession, but he's not complaining.

Now the chemist's word is in doubt as the convoluted hearing into Dancer's Image's disqualification in the 1968 Kentucky Derby.

And Penny Early is popular with the horses, the fans, and the public; but evidently she doesn't impress the men jockeys as they've staged a boycott to keep her off the track.

FIRST 'PIONEER OF THE YEAR' AWARD

Frank L. Reese, right, of Warren receives from Henry Tumby, vice president and general manager of the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania, the first annual "Pioneer of the Year" award. Reese was cited for devoting thousands of hours to community service and honored last Saturday by Telephone Pioneers of America in Pittsburgh for heading a committee which has conducted bingo games for patients at Warren State Hospital the past several years. The committee averages four nights each month at the hospital, has entertained 75,000 patients and donated more than 70,000 prizes. This activity has also been cited by the hospital administration. The Telephone Pioneers, with a membership of some 300,000, is the nation's largest social-industrial organization devoted to community betterment and service. Nearly 1,000 attended the dinner at which Reese was honored.

New Blast Slows Down Attempts to Reach Miners

MANNINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — A small explosion rumbled through a burning coal mine Thursday night, moments after mine officials expressed only slight hope for the safety of 78 men trapped 800 feet below the surface.

The blast, latest in a series since early Wednesday, spewed flames and smoke from the Llewellyn entrance to Mountaineer Coal Co. No. 9 mine.

James McCartney, a public relations aide for the parent Consolidation Coal Co., called the blast "a setback" for attempts to rescue the trapped miners.

"It means the fire has gone back to the Llewellyn portal," he said. He said the blast occurred at 5:45 p.m., 36 hours after the first explosion touched off a holocaust deep in the mine. Consolidation Vice President William Poundstone had said minutes earlier there still was hope that the trapped miners were alive, "but there is still no reason to be optimistic."

He had told a news conference that the fire and smoke conditions in the mine apparently had stabilized and that there was evidence the fire had diminished.

There was no immediate determination of how the latest blast would affect rescue efforts.

Poundstone would not estimate when rescue teams could enter the smoke-filled shafts and "we still don't know where the miners are."

He said continual efforts had been made to contact the missing men but all were unsuccessful.

Poundstone said work already has begun on the boring of holes through the mountainside in an effort to reach the men. But he noted the holes would have to go down some 800 feet and said this would require two or three days.

"There's a possible chance they'll make contact through the bore hole," Parks said.

There were 21 fortunate ones, those who managed to escape or were pulled from deep ventilation shafts by a giant crane which removed eight miners in a scoop bucket a few at a time. The eight spent hours huddled in a freezing air shaft near a ventilation fan.

Company officials also said efforts were being made to seal air vents in an effort to control air flow into the mine. One of the entrances sealed Wednesday was blown open late that night by a gas buildup.

Asst. Secretary of the Interior J. Cordell Moore and Bureau of Mines director Jack O'Leary flew into the Mannington area at mid-afternoon Thursday to inspect the damage.

Poised rescue teams, on the alert since the fire broke out following the chain of explosions, were helpless. The scorching heat and billowing smoke prevented their entering the shafts in an effort to get to the missing men.

All Gun Purchases Must Be Registered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials, weathering a broadside from the gun industry, pushed forward Thursday with plans for a store counter system of registration of all purchasers of firearms.

Starting Dec. 16, anyone who buys a gun will have to list his name, address and description on a signed statement that he is legally eligible to purchase the weapon.

"The casualness which has been associated with some sales of firearms is gone," said Sheldon Cohen, commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service.

Tax officials unveiled the registration forms at a day-long hearing on proposed regulations to carry out the sweeping gun control law passed by Congress after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Any person buying a gun over the counter or through the mails within the boundaries of his own state will have to fill out the form which includes a description of the weapon as well as the purchaser. The store will have to keep the record permanently.

Congress defeated proposals for licensing of all gun owners and registration of firearms. But with the store records on firearms buyers, a weapon could be traced through its serial number to the owner.

The gun control law, which forbids mail sales of arms and ammunition across state lines, outlaws all sales of any type to ex-convicts, drug addicts, the mentally ill and minors.

Planners Hear Incineration Best Way to Handle Waste

Representatives of refuse collection agencies in the county told the county planning commission Thursday incineration seemed the most feasible method for handling the area's solid waste products.

Spokesmen from Valentine Disposal, Warren; Rays Disposal, Youngsville; and Fitch Disposal, Sheffield, attended the commission meeting to discuss the recently completed Warren County Refuse Study prepared for the commission by Arthur Reed, planning consultant.

The study, which Reed says is not a complete analysis of the situation, recommends a landfill operation as "the most logical and most economical means of solid waste disposal."

"Landfill is the cheapest method under ideal conditions," Don Curtis of Valentine Disposal said. "However, our severe winters and the clay soil make it very difficult to operate a landfill system with large quantities of refuse."

Ron Brumagin of the state Health Department said there was a lack of landfill sites in the county. Access to such sites and location within a reasonable and economical distance of refuse collection areas also pose problems, the spokesmen said.

The county is now creating a daily refuse output of nearly 100 tons. An incineration system to handle this quantity would cost about $500,000, it was estimated. Incineration would reduce the volume of refuse, which still would have to be buried, by 75 to 80 per cent, Curtis said.

Also discussed was the method for operating a disposal system, either by the county or jointly by the collection agencies.

The planning commission decided to meet with the representatives of the collectors, the Warren Borough Planning Commission and Reed.

A change in the disposal methods used in Warren County was mandated by a change in state health legislation which is upgrading requirements to prevent pollution and other health hazards.

The planning commission also heard two petitions for zoning changes. David Wholeben, Stoneham, asked that his property along Rt. 6 in Stoneham be rezoned from residential to commercial in order that he might operate a motorcycle shop.

Commission Chairman Kermit Forsgren pointed out that, since the property is not directly adjacent to a commercially zoned area, the change would be tantamount to spot zoning, a practice frowned upon by the commission. Although the area across Rt. 6

Bankers Agree On Package Deal; Franc Devalued

BONN, Germany (AP) — The top 10 financial nations were reported agreed Thursday night on a package deal that would devalue the French franc and give France massive credits.

A West German source said part of the package would be an international credit line of $2 billion for France. There was no confirmed word on what France would be asked to do in return.

The French government has been trying to save the franc—now worth about 20 cents—from devaluation despite flights of capital from France.

The London Times said Thursday night that a 10-per cent devaluation of the franc was part of the package being hammered out by finance ministers and central bank managers in Bonn.

In early editions the newspaper said Britain also would have to put a tighter squeeze on its economy by increasing sales taxes on consumer goods by 10 per cent. It gave no source for its information, aside from saying that "it was learned in London."

At the same time, West Germany took sharp action to halt the rush of speculators buying marks in the belief they would be revalued upward.

But the deal being worked out in an emergency meeting of the so-called "Group of 10" nations, with Switzerland as an observer, could mean no increase in the value of the mark or any devaluation in the French franc. The two currencies were at the base of the latest international monetary crisis.

But for Germans the deal may mean cutbacks in an economy booming because of heavy exports and modest imports.

The United States was represented in the operation by Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler and William McChesney Martin, chairman of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Karl Schiller, West Germany's minister of economics and the meeting chairman, told newsmen work was completed first on the major element in the package: what West Germany will do to encourage imports and discourage exports and to curb speculation against the franc.

West Germany will slap a tax on exports and reduce its tax on imports. France will be the chief beneficiary, since the two countries do more trading with one another than they do with anyone else.

Other countries will benefit too, notably the United States and Britain. They are also big traders with West Germany, and their products compete with West German goods elsewhere.

Nigeria, USSR Sign Bilateral Economic Pact

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

Lagos—Nigeria and the Soviet Union signed their first bilateral economic and technical assistance agreement Thursday, a $140 million package of long-term credits formalizing the close relationship that the U.S.S.R. has been building with this war-torn nation.

The agreement marks a fresh success in the long Soviet drive to gain influence with the military government of the continent's most populous nation. A British colony until 1960, Nigeria had been decidedly cool to the Communist bloc until the civil war that began 16 months ago made the Soviet Union a major arms supplier to the federal side.

With the United States refusing to permit the export of any weapons to either Nigeria or secessionist Biafra, and Great Britain initially reluctant to supply federal needs, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Egypt stepped in. Two months after fighting broke out on July 6, 1967, four Czechoslovak Delphin jet fighters and 15 Russian MIG-17s arrived in Nigeria. Earlier this year IL-28 bombers appeared.

Shortly before the arrival on Nov. 10 of an eight-member Soviet economic team which toured the country before signing Thursday's pact, Nigeria also took delivery of six more MIGs and roughly a score of Russian jeeps and command cars. Along with the aircraft deliveries came shipments of Russian aerial bombs, a commodity which Britain refused to supply even after it agreed to sell substantial amounts of other arms to Lagos.

U.S. Reports Americans Fired Back into Buffer Strip

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command, reporting two more incidents in the demilitarized zone dividing Vietnam, said Friday that American artillery fired back into the northern half of the buffer strip for the first time since the Nov. 1 bombing halt.

The two incidents occurred Thursday and were described by U.S. headquarters as "enemy-initiated activity." They were the 20th and 21st reported in the zone since the cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam.

The command gave this account:

At 9:30 a.m. Thursday a U.S. Army aerial observer was flying a reconnaissance mission over the southern half of the DMZ and received 50-caliber machine-gun fire from a North Vietnamese army position in the northern half of the zone. The site was pinpointed as 4 1/2 miles north of Gio Linh near the Ben Hai River that divides the six-mile-wide DMZ. The air observer called in Army and Marine artillery fire, "resulting in one secondary explosion with a large fireball and the destruction of the enemy machine gun position."

There were no U.S. casualties and any enemy losses were unknown.

The second incident occurred little more than an hour later when an air observer flying a reconnaissance mission over the southern half of the zone came under antiaircraft fire from a position six miles north-northeast of Gio Linh in the northern half of the zone, the Command said. U.S. Army artillery fire again was called in and the enemy gun position was silenced.

American headquarters emphasized that the reconnaissance planes were over the southern half of the DMZ, that they were fired on from the northern half and that the artillery that hit back was in South Vietnam south of the DMZ.

Radio Hanoi charged, meanwhile, that the United States had stationed artillery units inside the southern half of the zone and said U.S. forces had shelled three North Vietnamese villages in the northern half.

Nixon Seeks Early Task Force Reports

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon, ending a Florida stay with more meetings on staffing his administration, disclosed plans Thursday for early receipt of task force reports on labor-management relations and fiscal policy.

The two task forces, among 10 working on major government problems and recommending solutions, are to report to Nixon by Dec. 1, press assistant Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters.

Reporting dates for eight other task forces will be in early December, he added, and other task forces "primarily in the area of social problems," will also be formed.

Nixon, who appeared for a brief photo session in the morning at a hotel near his seaside rented home, met through the day with advisors on possible appointments to the White House staff, and Cabinet and subcommittee posts.

He planned to fly back to New York in the evening, winding up a six-day stay at his favorite vacation retreat here.

Nixon was tanned and appeared rested at the picture session. He showed reporters a 162-page booklet published by the House Postoffice Committee listing the approximately 3,000 appointive jobs he will have to fill.

"I haven't read it," Nixon said, adding, "That is what these fellows have been studying."

When Ziegler told the photographers they would have another 30 seconds, Nixon said, "That'll be the code word of this administration. Another 30 seconds. Get in or get out."

Although De Gaulle once wrote "old age is a shipwreck," that was in reference to someone else. De Gaulle's health seems solid, his mind alert, his memory amazing. The one weak point is his failing eyesight.

"Aides literally rush ahead of him when he walks outside his office or private apartment to make sure he does not run into a glass door," said one source.

A public opinion poll published this week indicated 53 per cent of the French people are happy with the way De Gaulle is conducting France's affairs.

DeGaulle Celebrates Birthday With Little to Cheer About

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle turns 78 Friday—and on the home political front there's little to celebrate or be cheery about.

The franc, so recently one of his greatest prides, has been badly battered. The delicate mechanisms of his policy of trying to be middleman between East and West have been jarred by the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia. His massive majority in the National Assembly—though still solid—is becoming restive, and muttering that government policies are contradictory or indecisive, or both.

The deep-biting educational reform is on the point of passing from theory to practice. No one knows yet how it will work, and everyone seems worried. There are fears that the economy is not as healthy as the ministers keep saying.

Plans are in the offing for decentralizing the government administrative apparatus. Another proposal will give workers some kind of share in company management and profits. Not everyone is enchanted with either idea, but De Gaulle favors both, so they'll be put into effect.

There is no indication that De Gaulle is unduly upset about any of the current difficulties. He is a man who has carved out a large place in French history by dealing with major disasters. In the face of less important political tremors, he is unflappable.

One bright point in the midst of his troubles is a marked warming of relations with the United States in recent months. As far as anyone on the outside knows, the birthday will pass unnoticed at Elysee Palace. De Gaulle, aloof and austere, is not the kind of man who would welcome a visit by his staff to sing "happy birthday."

Although De Gaulle once wrote "old age is a shipwreck," that was in reference to someone else. De Gaulle's health seems solid, his mind alert, his memory amazing. The one weak point is his failing eyesight.

"Aides literally rush ahead of him when he walks outside his office or private apartment to make sure he does not run into a glass door," said one source.

OBITUARIES

Hiram Floyd Andrews

Hiram Floyd Andrews, 87, formerly of Garland, Pa., died at the House Home, Youngsville, at 6:30 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 21, 1968. He was born in Garland, Nov. 21, 1881 and had lived in the area all his life. He was a lumberman. Survivors include a stepdaughter, Mrs. Archie (Grizzle) Brantow, Erie, Pa., and a number of nieces and nephews. Mr. Andrews was preceded in death by his wife, Mrs. Katrina Leary Andrews, in 1940; his father and mother, Hiram F. and Sarah T. Andrews; three sisters and two brothers. Funeral services will be in the Leo D. Gibson Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Saturday. Burial will be in the Presbyterian Cemetery, Garland. The Rev. Robert Williams, Youngsville Free Methodist Church, will officiate at services. Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. today.

Miss Clara E. Johnson

Miss Clara Elizabeth Johnson, 72, of 110 Park st., died in Warren General Hospital at 12:25 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 21, 1968, after being in ill health for the past two years. She was born in Wilcox, Pa., April 12, 1896, and had been a Warren resident most of her life. She was employed at the New Process Co. for 45 years, retiring in 1962. She was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Survivors include four nieces, Mrs. Dorothy Duell and Mrs. Harold (Alice) Smith, Warren; Mrs. Sylvester (Leola) Songer, Russell, and Mrs. Earl (Leona) Belcher, Sheffield; two nephews Patrick Park, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Ralph Farr, Silver Spring, Md.; several grandnieces and grandnephews. She was preceded in death by her parents, J. Peter and Ellen Johnson; two brothers, John and Fred Johnson, and two sisters, Mrs. Marie Park and Mrs. Anna Farr. Friends may call at the Templeton Funeral Home from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. today. Services will be held in the funeral home at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. The Rev. Carl E. R. Nelson, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Oakland Cemetery.

Robert E. Ward

Robert E. Ward, 3 Berry st., North Warren, died in Warren General Hospital at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 21, 1968. He had retired from Struthers Wells Corp. several years ago. Surviving is a son, John Ward of Richland, Wash. He was preceded in death by his wife, Corabell Godell, and a daughter, Mrs. Jane Cramer. Lutz-Vermilyea Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements. A complete obituary will be in the Friday Warren Times-Mirror and Observer.

FUNERAL SERVICES

Emmet Edward Hutchens

Funeral services for Emmet Edward Hutchens, 11 Cedar st., who died Monday, Nov. 18, 1969, were held in the Templeton Funeral Home at 1:30 p.m. Thursday. The Rev. Frederick Kramer, pastor of Emanuel United Church of God, officiated. Burial was in Oakland Cemetery. Bearers were Ardell Saylor, Bruce Jones, Joseph DeMott, Kenneth Saylor, Myron Kirberger, and Kenneth Whaley.

Harry Arnold Himes

Services in memory of Harry Arnold Himes, of Tiona, were held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. from the Borden Funeral Home, Sheffield. The Reverend R. C. Dowling of the Tiona Methodist Church officiated. Burial was in the Sheffield Cemetery.

Masses For Kennedy Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP) — On Friday, the fifth anniversary of his death, Mass will be said for President John F. Kennedy in both his old parish church and in the cathedral where kings and queens gathered for his funeral. For many thousands it means a slow walk up a hill in Arlington National Cemetery to the stone terrace where the late president lies buried with an ever-burning flame keeping watch. Almost 24 million persons have visited the grave since Kennedy was buried there after his assassination in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

On past anniversaries of that date there were visits by his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. He went to the grave in a misty dawn on the anniversary last year. On this anniversary Sen. Kennedy lies beneath a small white wooden cross not far from his brother, the victim of an assassin in Los Angeles last June.

In the five years since President Kennedy's death, the acts of remembrance have become a tradition each Nov. 22: a gathering of friends for a Mass at Holy Trinity Church and Mass at St. Matthew's Cathedral. Kennedy lived in the Holy Trinity parish before he became president.

Planning

is zoned Commercial, the area adjacent to Wholeben's property is residential.

The other zoning change was requested by Warren National Bank which asked that lots on the corner of Jackson Run rd. and Rt. 62 be changed from Residential to Business for the purpose of constructing a branch office. The lots in question border on an area already zoned Business and would be within the area of legitimate zoning change, Forsgren said.

In all cases of zoning change, the planning commission makes a recommendation to the county commissioners, who after a public hearing, pass on whether to amend the county zoning ordinance and grant the change. Planner William Rusin told the commission that he had sworn a complaint against H. W. Ransom, Conneautville, for violation of the county subdivision ordinance. Ransom has sold eight lots in Triumph twp. without an approved subdivision plan, Rusin said. Ransom was notified that he was in violation of the ordinance before the complaint was lodged, he said.

The commission also briefly discussed highway signs in the area. Rusin told the commission that the plethora of signs lining the highways reduces the impact of any signs which might be put up to help the tourist. He said a program might be initiated to consolidate the number of signs now standing.

The commission gave final approval to two subdivision plans — Louis E. Glasser, Glade twp., off Cobham Park rd. and Charles Gisselbrecht, Pleasant twp.

4 Marines Are Killed In Mishap

BRANT, N. Y. (AP) — A Marine Corps sedan and a tractor-trailer collided Thursday on snow-covered Route 20, killing a young Marine recruiter and three teen-aged enlistees.

State police said three of the victims — S. Sgt. Norman Kowalski, 23, Gary Drozdziel, 19, and John Hurley, 19 — were killed outright. All were from Dunkirk where Kowalski was the resident recruiter.

The fourth victim, John Christy, 18, of Fredonia, died at Lake Shore Intercommunity Hospital in Silver Creek three hours after the accident near this community 25 miles southwest of Buffalo. He had been pinned in the wreckage two hours.

The truck driver, George Kish, 45, of Parma Heights, Ohio, was treated at the hospital for a leg injury and discharged.

A Marine Corps spokesman said Kowalski was driving the recruits to Buffalo, where they were to have been inducted. The crash occurred during a light snowfall that glazed the road.

Kowalski lived on Greco Lane, Drozdziel on Bennett Road, Hurley at 92 Lincoln Ave. and Christy on Christy Road.

work on getting together a billion dollars or more in nonfranc currencies to put at the disposal of France so that it can defy the attacks of speculators. This will be a kind of loan of foreign money—mostly marks. France will be able to draw on it to pay off people who want to get rid of francs, without drawing on its own dwindling reserves.

Last July a group of countries put $1.3 billion into such a loan, called a standby credit, for the benefit of France. Little of it is believed to be left. France's own reserves, which once amounted to $6.7 billion have dropped below $4 billion.

The Bank of France lost 350 million to $400 million Thursday and Friday of last week alone.

This mounting speculation was what brought the present meeting together so hurriedly. It consists of finance ministers and central bank chiefs from the "Group of 10."

Besides the United States, Germany, Britain and France itself, it includes Japan, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Canada and Sweden. Switzerland is an observer because it is an important country in financial matters.

Another element in the package consists of the measures to be taken by individual countries. Since these are politically difficult, many of them may become known only bit by bit.

In its move to curb the rush to the mark, West Germany's federal bank announced that the reserve requirement for all incoming foreign currencies will be raised as of Saturday from 9.25 per cent to 100 per cent. This means that banks accepting foreign currency for exchange must turn that currency over to the federal bank in addition to an equal amount in German marks.

The move is expected to cause banks to curb their purchases from speculators because they will not wish to freeze large amounts of their own reserves.

Ground Broken for State's First Auto Assembly Plant

NEW STANTON, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Shafer climbed aboard a yellow bulldozer Thursday and symbolically broke ground for the state's first auto assembly plant.

"This is one of the proudest days of my life," Shafer said. "This is a giant step forward for this section of the state and for all of Pennsylvania."

More than 200 officials from Southwestern Pennsylvania gathered for the ceremony on a cold, windy knoll 35 miles southeast of Pittsburgh. They applauded the official start of the Chrysler Corp. plant, probably the biggest economic development in the area since World War II.

Excavation of 3 million tons of dirt started more than three weeks ago and the first foundations will be poured next month. The first steel will be erected in February and buildings with 2.3 million feet of floor space will be enclosed next fall.

Production will start in the summer of 1970, and Chrysler expects to employ 4,500 people with an annual payroll of $40 million when in full production. Joseph F. Kerigan, a vice president of Chrysler, said the work was going at breakneck speed because the company expects a dramatic increase in car sales in the 1970s.

He said his company expects to get a fair share of the market. "And of course to us at Chrysler 'fair' share means all we can get," he said.

Shafer said Chrysler's decision to locate in the area—a decision made by a computer in six minutes—was a tribute to the state's transportation network and the business climate in Pennsylvania.

Besides the 300 acres for the plant site, Chrysler has options on 2,000 acres in the vicinity.

"We don't know if it will be used to develop residential homes, apartment houses, shopping centers or industrial parks," Kerigan said. "But we do know that by acquiring ownership of the property around the plant, Chrysler Realty... can assure a pleasing, orderly and planned development of the total community."

Kerigan said a small group of Chrysler executives would move in to supervise the start-up of the plant. But he said most of the labor would come from surrounding communities.

The exchanges have closed one day a week, mostly on Wednesday, since June 12 to give brokers additional time in which to handle paperwork that has overwhelmed them because of record trading volume. Earlier in the year the exchanges temporarily curtailed their daily operations by 90 minutes for the same reason.

Big Ben Is Tilting Slowly Toward Thames

LONDON (AP) — The clock tower containing Big Ben, wartime symbol of Britain to millions around the world, is tilting slowly toward the Thames.

The foundations of the Gothic-style structure that withstood World War II bombing raids have been affected by age and the swift river currents a few yards away, the Works Ministry reported Thursday.

"But there's no danger," a ministry spokesman said. "The tower is tilting at the rate of about one inch every century and our engineers say there is no cause for alarm."

The 316-foot tower was discovered in 1963 to be leaning 15 inches from the perpendicular and has slipped another sixteenth of an inch since then.

"This is not unusual among buildings beside rivers," the spokesman said. "As a matter of fact, the taller Victoria Tower at the other end of the Houses of Parliament is also slightly out of kilter."

The ministry measures the lean yearly but is planning no special measures to support the tower, the spokesman added. In comparison, the Leaning Tower of Pisa, only 180 feet high, is more than 16 feet out of line.

The Big Ben tower was erected in the 1850s as part of new parliament buildings designed by Charles Barry to replace those destroyed in an 1834 fire. Its clock, with four faces each 23 feet across, began keeping time in 1859.

The origin of the name "Big Ben" is obscure. Historians say it may have been derived from Sir Benjamin Hall, commissioner of works in the 1850s, or from Benjamin "Big Ben" Caunt, a champion boxer of the time.

Strictly speaking, the name belongs only to the 13½-ton bell that tolls the hours. But Big Ben

Lock Haven Presents

'The Tempest'

"The Tempest," by William Shakespeare, is being presented by the Lock Haven State College Players. The second and third performances of the play will be in Price Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. today and Saturday.

Neil Flanagan, 1967 Off Broadway Award (Oble) winner, will play Prospero. Professor Robert A. McCormick is production director. Tickets will be available at the box office, Cheryl Van Haelst, a junior from Muncy, Pa., will play Ariel. Frank E. Hatfield, Lock Haven junior, will be Caliban. Charles E. Reardon, sophomore from Kittery, Me., who plays Trinculo, is the only non-Pennsylvanian in the cast.

Linda L. Irwin, a freshman from Lancaster, will play Miranda.

There were more offers for the cars, including a 1933 Stutz convertible Victoria, with gold-plated metal fittings and a natural Philippine mahogany dashboard.

Howard Weiner, an insurance broker of Mamaroneck, N.Y., bought the car for $31,000, saying he and his wife "had seen the car and liked it very much."

Weiner, who said he had several other antique cars, said he would "look at it (the Stutz) for a while, then show it."

Asked if he planned to drive it, he said, "Not very much." Nor, he said, would he let his 19-year-old son drive it, especially "not on Saturday nights."

A bright yellow 1913 Overland roadster went for $1,800 to E.J. Carlson, a collector and dealer of Shrewsbury, Mass. "I'm an impulse buyer," he said when asked why he bought it.

1890's Train

Sells For

$75,000

NEW YORK (AP) — With the merest flick of a wrist, a New York attorney, acting for a South Carolina firm, paid $75,000 Thursday for a three-car, 1890's style train, complete with a player piano, Tiffany lamps and marble-topped tables.

Norman Wynroth made only one bid on the train, which was one of more than 50 items—including 24 antique cars—auctioned at PB 84, a division of Parke-Bernet Galleries.

The train was sold by the Permacel Division of Johnson & Johnson which had used the three cars for promotional purposes. Originally built in the 1930's, the cars were refurbished at an estimated cost of $300,000 to make them look like trains in use in the 1890's.

Wynroth was acting for the Lancaster and Chester Railway Co., a 25-mile private line in South Carolina, owned by Springs Mills Inc.

"They just called me and asked me," he said, explaining why he was chosen to buy the train.

Asked what would be done with it, Wynroth said, "I don't think anybody knows."

He said he had not seen it—the train is in Ringoes, N.J.—but added, "I was promised that I could sleep in it if I got it."

Many of the more than 300 persons at the auction expressed interest in the train, although few actually joined the bidding, which started at $20,000.

There were more offers for the cars, including a 1933 Stutz convertible Victoria, with gold-plated metal fittings and a natural Philippine mahogany dashboard.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said Thursday he will convene a conference within the next 10 days to discuss ways of preventing such mishaps as the Mammoth, W. Va., mine disaster.

Coal Mine Accident 'Just One Too Many'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The West Virginia coal mine accident that trapped 78 men some 600 feet underground "is just one too many," Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., said Thursday.

Dent, who last Sept. 11 introduced a Johnson Administration-backed bill proposing stiffer federal safety laws for coal mines, said he'll begin hearings on the bill the first week of February.

Dent, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee's general labor subcommittee, was asked if there was heavy coal industry opposition to the bill when he first introduced it.

"Oh my God, yes," he said in a telephone interview from his 21st District office in Greensburg, Pa. "We had phone calls, letters and personal visits by representatives of some companies."

"We got a lot of flak, as you say, asking that we don't move on it until they'd had time to study it in detail," Dent continued.

"But there was very little chance of that anyway because it was so late in the session," he said. "That's one of the reasons we put it in so late. I want to give them (coal companies) plenty of time to study it. I don't want them saying they didn't get the time."

He said one of the companies that asked him about the bill was Consolidation Coal Co. of Pittsburgh, whose subsidiary, Mountaineer Coal Co., operates the West Virginia mine where the 78 men are trapped. "Consolidation neither supported nor opposed the bill," Dent said. "They just asked for time to study it."

W.A. "Tony" Boyle, president of the United Mine Workers, "is very much in support of this bill," Dent said. "Completely and unequivocally. He'll be one of those testifying on it."

Dent said copies of the bill, which he plans to reintroduce without change next year, have been sent to all major coal companies and trade associations for study.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., who introduced an identical bill shortly after Dent proposed his own measure, said earlier Thursday he also plans to reintroduce his proposal in the 91st Congress.

Both bills are along lines proposed Sept. 11 by President Johnson, who said most coal mine disasters happen "because our coal mine safety laws are inadequate" or existing laws are "too frequently ignored."

The new bills would: —Set criminal penalties and fines of six months in jail and up to $5,000 on first convictions for those found guilty of violating the new federal law, and double that for second offenders.

—Extend existing law to both surface coal mines and to the face of mines, as well as correct what Dent calls "18 other specific safety omissions in the present law."

—Require the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to develop health criteria for mines, and give the Secretary of Interior the power to issue and enforce HEW's health standards.

—Provide for civil penalties and court injunctions to prevent what the government finds to be unsafe practices in mines.

Bill Would Give School Boards Emergency Power

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House completed legislation action Thursday on a bill that would grant local school boards emergency powers to grant pay increases to teachers who staged illegal strikes.

The measure, which would have an immediate effect on the school districts of Pittsburgh and Scranton, went to Gov. Shafer after the House voted 184-16 to concur in Senate amendments.

House Republican Leader Lee A. Donaldson Jr. and Democratic Whip K. Leroy Ivis, both of Allegheny County, made a bipartisan plea for approval of the legislation.

Ivis noted that teachers in Scranton and Pittsburgh conducted work stoppages earlier this year and under the 1947 public employe anti-strike law were ineligible for raises.

Donaldson said it was the intention of the House next year to enact a new law, but that in the meantime teachers in the two major cities should not be penalized.

Rep. George W. Alexander, R-Clarion, spoke against the bill and called for the House to stand up against those who openly defy laws in which they do not believe.

"We have reached a place in this country where we stop crying and stop running scared, or we're in trouble," Alexander said.

Mental Patients Reshuffled As Strike Ties Up Hospitals

NEW YORK (AP) — Mental patients too ill to send home were shuffled from ward to ward or hospital to hospital Thursday to dampen the impact of a ward attendants' strike at three New York state hospitals.

About 3,700 of the hospitals' 11,000 patients were simply sent home. State officials said they were mostly those who go home every weekend.

Emergency outpatient centers were established at nearby hospitals so even they would not be left entirely in the care of their families, officials said.

The strike over union jurisdiction was apparently joined by about a third of the hospitals' 3,000 attendants. It started Monday at Creedmore State Hospital in Queens and spread Thursday morning to the Bronx and Manhattan state hospitals. A State Supreme Court justice issued an injunction to stop it Thursday afternoon, but a strike leader said the order would be disregarded.

"It doesn't really have any effect," said Lillian Roberts, organizer for Council 50 of the AFL-CIO American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. "The strike will go on."

The ward attendants made it evident they know what the strike means to the hospitals' patients.

"When we walked out, the patients asked us to take them with us," said Elma Mayfield, an attendant for 10 years at Creedmore. "We're the ones who take them home for holidays and weekends. We're the ones they talk to, because they are too nervous to talk to the doctors."

Miss Ethel Fuller, another 10 year attendant at Creedmore, refused to "abandon" her patients and continued to work.

"My patients need me," she said. "I'm against any action that endangers the life and health of a patient."

The strike is the latest in a rash of illegal walkouts by governmental employes in New York City. The biggest was the on-again-off-again teachers' strike that disrupted classes for 1.1 million students for most of 10 weeks and ignited racial pressures over school decentralization. The teachers went back to work on Tuesday.

During the school strike, New Yorkers also were hit by slowdowns by firemen and policemen, "superenforcement" of traffic violations by parkway police on Long Island and a wildcat strike by incinerator stokers that allowed garbage to pile up several different days.

All were illegal under a ban on strikes by public employes in the state's Taylor law.

The state hospital attendants' dispute started over Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's recognition a year ago of the Civil Service Employees Association, an independent union, as sole bargaining agent for the state's 105,000 state hospital employes. Council 50, which contends it has locals at 10 more state hospitals ready to strike, is demanding a representation election.

Internal Affairs Bill Goes Back to Committee

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state Senate sent a bill abolishing the Department of Internal Affairs back to a conference committee Thursday due to a dispute over what to do with the Bureau of the Topographic Survey.

"The House wants to put the topographic survey into the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries," said the bill's sponsor, Sen. Richard C. Frame, R-Venango.

"The Senate bill would put it under the state planning board," he said.

Optimistic of settlement of the dispute in committee Friday, the Senate agreed to House amendments on six "housekeeping" bills transferring other responsibilities of the Internal Affairs Department to various surviving state departments.

The bills, which transfer many of the duties including jurisdiction and administration of the state's weights and measures activities to the Department of Justice, now go to the Governor for his signature.

The Senate also concurred with minor House amendments on two bills from the judiciary reform package providing right of appeal from all courts of record and increasing the amount of arbitration in Common Pleas Court in Allegheny County.

The bills also go to the governor for signing.

Adopted unanimously was a resolution to establish a Senate Committee to study laws relating to the operation of public employe retirement systems in Pennsylvania.

Also announced was the appointment of a five-man committee chaired by Sen. Edwin G. Holl, R-Montgomery, to investigate the sale and distribution of cough syrups containing codeine.

Holl, who introduced the resolution calling for the probe, said there was a clear danger in the codeine syrup "if used by drug addicts for kicks and can lead to large scale consumption and destruction of human beings."

Also passed by a 30-5 vote was a bill which would allow Delaware County to establish an authority to create an industrial complex and airport slated for the Concord Township area.

The bill was hotly contested by Sen. Clarence D. Bell, R-Delaware, who said the bill was opposed by four townships in his district.

Freak Accident Injures 36

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A freak accident involving two of the Cleveland Transit System's spanking new "airport" cars injured 36 persons and marred the public opening Thursday of the rapid transit extension to Cleveland Hopkins Airport. None of the injuries was believed serious.

A CTS spokesman said the cars in the two-car train became detached and when the lead car slowed down the second car slammed into it.

Police cars rushed to the scene to take the injured to Lakeside and Mount Sinai hospitals. Many of those involved complained of back and neck injuries.

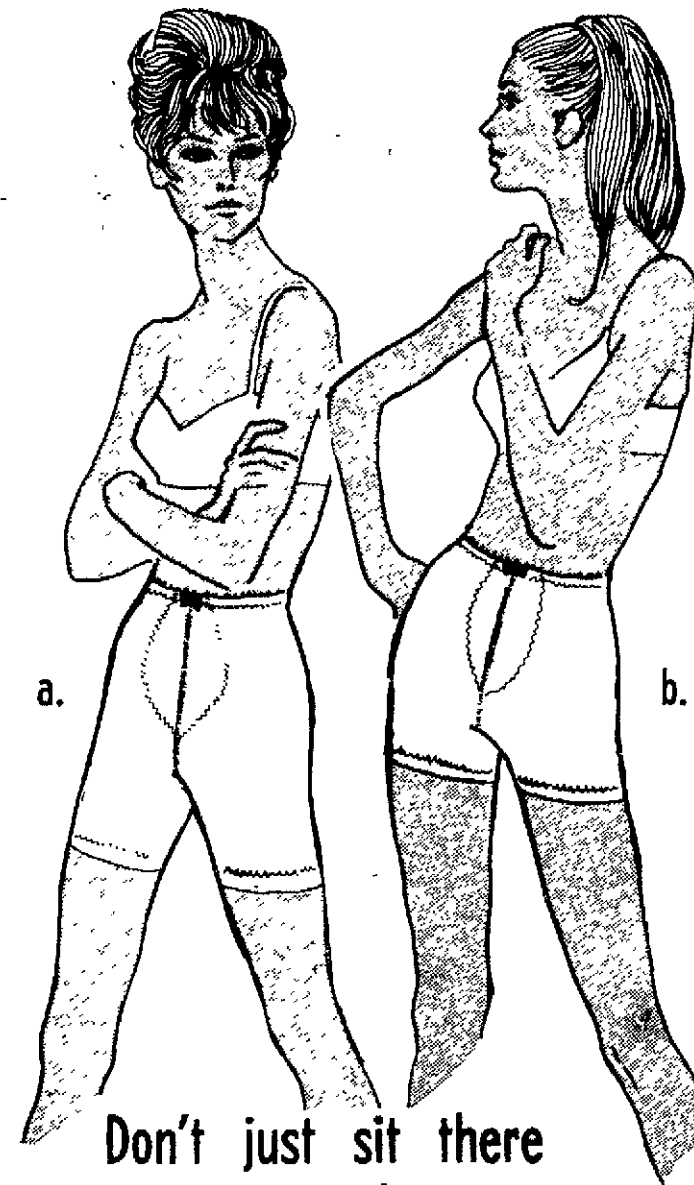

The accident happened two hours after service was opened to the airport 12 miles southwest of the downtown area.

The airport link, the first such rapid transit extension in the country, was to have been opened to the public a week ago. Storm damage to electrical cables delayed the opening until Friday.

High-Spirited Citizens

Realizing that the clean up of Conewango Creek would be the first step towards establishing their section of the county in its rightful place as a vital part of Kinzua Country's overall recreation development, the newly formed Akeley Improvement Association has undertaken the project without asking the help of any federal or state agency. The challenge is a sizeable one, and one that must have called for the highest degree of community spirit among those who formed the far-sighted organization.

Yet there can be little doubt that the Conewango Valley is worthy of their most laborious efforts. For between the high ridges that form the boundaries of their area of interest rests a countryside of great potential as a recreational paradise. Coursed, as it is, by what will one day be one of the finest fishing streams in the state, being the location of one of the most interesting swamp areas to be found within miles, and blessed with a wealth of yet undeveloped land, the future of the valley is highly promising.

The current activities of the Akeley Improvement Association are not the first attempts by residents of the area to correct conditions that have adversely affected the Conewango Valley for years. Nor is there any guarantee that the present drive will successfully project the area as an outstanding recreation possibility.

But there is one thing for sure—so long as there are men willing to stand on their own two feet and face the problems which plague the Conewango, its day in the sun is as certain as death and taxes.

Countdown Time Again

Six weeks until Christmas. It's countdown time. The disc jockeys have already begun to torture the people with jingles. We will hear them on every radio station over and over and our hearts will be gladdened by the monotony. I just can't wait to hear old Blingo the Croc start to dream of a White Christmas for the $8,000 and first time.

Sickening. Still, I would infinitely prefer to hear the groaner do it a hundred times than to hear that Little Drummer Boy go through his dratted ratta-tat once. One of my daughters hums Adeste Fidelis because, as she explains it, she cannot divorce it from her mind. This time we should try to establish whether she has a mind.

The department stores are beginning to dress up with tinsel, enormous holly wreaths and giant fir trees with sparkling tinsel. 'Tis the season to be jolly, if by chance you have the lolly. . .

Those friendly little loan offices will be getting a big play from the squirrels who forgot to put the nuts away all last summer. Charge accounts and Diners' Club cards will make the shopping appear to be easier until the bills arrive by mail around January 3rd. Mother and dad will sit late around the dining room table deciding who gets on their Christmas list and who gets off.

One year I surrendered and went out and bought thirty wall barometers and an aunt phoned me later and, with some asperity, told me that the dam thing wouldn't keep time no matter what she did to it. A few relatives kept them in the packing box and tried to give them back to me the following Christmas, but I wasn't having any of that.

My father never shops. He writes checks with a hand so shaky that the bank figures they were written in the middle of a stickup. Children get $2. Adults get $5. Close relatives $10. Very few ever cash these things, so that John M. Bishop becomes the only man who can run through the Christmas season and emerge on the other side with the same bank balance. A shrewd cookie, that one.

My beautiful wife starts Christmas shopping in July. She looks for bargains and then tries to figure out who should get it. We have a utility room full of cardboard boxes with little code marks inscribed, so that she does not make the mistake of sending the knitting needles and yarn to my son-in-law, Charles Freshette, and the Erector Set to my father.

The first constructive thing we did about Christmas was to stop sending the cards. Our family list of those eligible for greetings, but not warm enough to rate a gift, ran to four hundred. Two years ago we stopped it. Nobody ever read them. The practice is to open the envelope, look at the signature and murmur, "Holy mackerel. Here's a Christmas card from Aunt Arabella, and we forgot to send one to her."

In the long ago, my children were forbidden to leave their room Christmas morning until mother and dear duncy dad were awake so that we could watch the dancing eyes of the youngsters as they first glimpsed the lighted tree downstairs, and the array of gift-wrapped packages under the tree.

By 4 p. m., one wheel had fallen off the carriage. One of the innocents was crying because, although the doll could open and close its eyes and say "Maa-maa," it couldn't wet. The importance of the plumbing es- cape me. The Christmas candy was half gone; the dog had chewed one-third of the way through the game of Monopoly; the ice skates were given a dry run on the living room carpet.

People dropped in unannounced, loaded with good spirits averaging 85 proof and they sat and drank and laughed. The true spirit of the season was upon them and sometimes I was forced to pry the car keys from them and put them up for the night. As punishment, they were lopped off next year's list.

Authors often send autographed copies of their newest books as gifts, but I renounced the practice because mine bounced back like bad checks.

Don't forget Christmas dinner. There is the appetizer, the soup, the tan turkey glistening on a platter, the mashed potatoes, turnips, creamed onions, the turkey dressing, the pumpkin pie and mince pie, and the indigestion. Do not forget to sample everything she cooks or you will be staring into a high noon look that leaves blisters.

Ah, Christmas. All I ever ask of it is a 50-50 chance to survive. . .

SYLVIA PORTER

Gyps vs. Businessmen

In recent weeks, businessmen in cities across the land have been approached by sincere-sounding solicitors asking for contributions for the purchase of books on Negro history to be used in predominantly Negro libraries and schools -- an appealing cause indeed in this era of racial strife.

But, as those who checked into one history book promotion found, the money collected is going directly into the pockets of the solicitors. The local churches with which they say they are affiliated have never heard of them. In another solicitation last year -- this one involving books about famous Negroes to be purchased by a "foundation" for the benefit of ghetto schoolchildren -- it also turned out that the sole beneficiaries were the promoters themselves.

These are just samples of the unscrupulous promotions currently aimed at U.S. businesses and businessmen, which probably translate into losses amounting to tens of millions of dollars each year. Thus, here is a guide to help you spot -- and avoid -- today's lengthening list of gyps and schemes:

+ A salesman in another city telephones you, the company president or other top executive, says he's a friend of one of your overseas agents or a friend of another executive in your company. He then tells a heartrending story about a relative who has died, leaving an office supply business which must be liquidated immediately. If you agree to buy up the supplies for use by your company, at "sacrifice" prices, you are more than likely to receive far more supplies than you ordered and to pay a lot more money than you had planned. You also are ignoring what surely would be your own sound advice to others in your company: leave such matters to experienced purchasing agents.

+ A promoter name-drops his way into your office, offering custom-tailored suits at bargain-basement prices. It's hard to believe that any sophisticated businessman would put down deposits of up to $200, or even pay in full, and end up receiving a badly made or wrong-sized suit, or no suit at all. But he does. It's also exceedingly difficult to measure the extent of this swindle, because few businessmen are willing to report the embarrassing details.

+ A telephone solicitor calls the advertising department of your company, asks your firm to take out an ad in a labor journal he represents. He may make vague reference to "labor troubles" if your company refuses to buy an ad. Or your company may simply receive a bill for ads it never authorized. Obviously, the guideline here for an advertising department is to check up on any medium, particularly an unknown publication.

+ You, the businessman, are "awarded" or "nominated" this or that as a prominent businessman. You find, though, that to get the award you must make a substantial financial outlay -- for the benefit of those making the award. Or you may be approached by a photographer who says he has urgent instructions to obtain a picture of you for use in a newspaper or magazine. His real goal is to lure you into paying exorbitant prices for photographs you didn't want in the first place.

Over and above them all, possibly today's most widespread gyp against businesses is the "business directory" scheme. A little known, or even nonexistent, classified business directory outfit sends hundreds of thousands of invoice-like statements to businesses requesting payment of from $40 to $90 for inclusion of the company in the annual directory, which you're likely to confuse with the widely known Yellow Pages.

The solicitations may say, in fine print, that they are not invoices, but they still look like invoices and accounting departments frequently confuse them with bills and pay them. One correspondent of mine has forwarded to me more than two dozen invoices his company has received in the past year or so. U.S. businesses have lost millions of dollars in this one scheme.

And this is only a sampling! You can be smart -- and vulnerable too.

A RARE lung disease in humans, called sequoiosis, has been linked to California's giant redwood trees by medical researchers at Stanford University. The cause of the condition has been traced to fungi in redwood sawdust.

The Distorted Equilibrium

(C) N. Y. Times News Service
PARIS — One immediate result of the Czechoslovakian crisis has been a tightening up of the two alliances that divide Europe into Western and Eastern blocs. Furthermore, in each instance — that of NATO and that of the Warsaw Pact — ties between the superpowers and their smaller allies have been strengthened.

As a consequence, efforts to encourage dissolution of the blocs and gradual cementing of new continental links are now in abeyance. There is distinct wariness on both sides of the ideological frontier, mounting suspicion and a renewed fear of ultimate hot war.

NATO showed at its recent Brussels meeting that it is facing the future with revived confidence even though no truly dramatic new pledges to build alliance strength were made. It is obvious that De Gaulle has discarded all thought of denouncing the North Atlantic Treaty when this becomes possible next year.

Prior to the occupation of Czechoslovakia the general all-ways entertained formal withdrawal as a possibility if a favorable new situation developed in the East. The situation that developed was new but scarcely favorable.

Consequently small signs indicate that French policy toward NATO is less skeptical than at any time in recent years. However, Paris showed no enthusiasm for Bonn's suggestion that the United States undertake for a minimum of three years to maintain its existing troop strength in Europe.

The present French attitude still differs vastly from that of the Fourth Republic. Then France wanted specific assurances from Washington and London that the United States and Britain would not denounce the North Atlantic Treaty when this became permissible in 1969 and also wanted the U.S. to pledge a fixed proportionate share of allied divisions in Europe.

In those days France was a member of NATO's big three standing group which no longer exists. Paris wished the standing group to coordinate allied strategy for Asia and Africa as well as Europe — much as later requested by De Gaulle in his suggestion of a three-power directorate, a suggestion spurned by Eisenhower. It is interesting to find the French now quietly discussing Mediterranean and North African strategic matters in private talks with the Americans.

The most striking current contrast is in the voluntary revival of NATO vigor as against the imposed dynamism of the Warsaw Pact. When France opted out of NATO's military organization and requested its allies to leave, they did. The mere thought that political changes might loosen Czechoslovakian ties with the Warsaw Pact prompted Moscow to occupy its little partner.

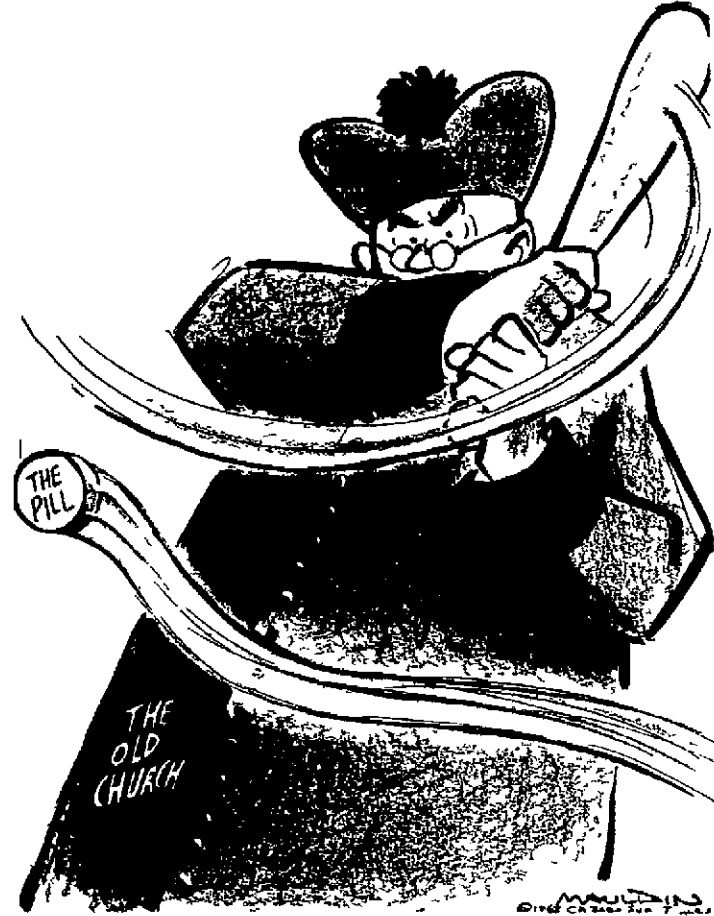

One consequence was to shock many international Communist leaders and, among Russia's partners, Rumania particularly objected to misuse of the pact against allies rather than enemies. Nevertheless, even Rumania acknowledges that it still adheres loyally to the Warsaw treaty and would fight to defend it.

The device used by both coalitions, which enables each to take specific actions even when they are not unanimously endorsed, is that of a smaller caucus inside the alliance. Thus a defense planning group within NATO meets regularly although France is neither part of it nor technically bound by its decisions. Likewise, the occupation of Czechoslovakia was opposed by Rumania and is not officially considered a Warsaw Pact operation — only an operation by five Warsaw Pact partners.

The nasty situation brought about by the Czechoslovakian affair still festers in European hearts. For obvious reasons, deep mistrust was revived in the West. Moscow is therefore doing its best in the East to beat the tired old war drum of "West German militarism." This has managed to revive hostility and suspicion of both Bonn and NATO.

The military balance in Europe may have been somewhat tipped in Russia's favor by the strengthening of advance Soviet positions in Bohemia. This comes after a long period during which Moscow had deliberately built up its naval power on Europe's vital southern flank in the Mediterranean.

However, while NATO has not yet managed to offset these moves, its own moral and political strength have been reinforced at a crucial time, just before it becomes legally permissible for members to withdraw. This is a gain which in the long run should outweigh Russia's temporary tactical advantage — achieved at the expense of Soviet world prestige and Moscow's popularity among allies on whose good will so much depends.

Wallace and the Third Party

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — The big question politicians are asking is whether George Wallace can keep his third party alive. Will the United States desert its unique two-party system? Teddy Roosevelt, Bob La Follette, Strom Thurmond and Henry Wallace have launched third parties in this century. All fizzled. Will George Wallace be an exception?

The shelling he took at the polls, his friends say, hasn't diminished his determination to reach the White House. He bounced back from defeat when he first ran for governor of Alabama, and they expect him to pursue the presidency with the same doggedness.

After John Patterson defeated him for the governorship in 1958, Wallace campaigned up and down the state for the next four years. He shook hands at every country crossroads, spoke in every grubby hall, hustled votes down every country lane.

He also learned the catchwords and clichés that arouse the rabble. In his 1958 campaign he had posed as the champion of the unwashed, but he had been a racial moderate. He discovered, however, that Alabama voters were more fired up over desegregation than over economics. Never again, he told friends, would he let anyone "out-gest" him.

So for the next four years, friends predict, George Corley Wallace will apply nationally the tactics that made him a power in Alabama. He will crisscross the country, repeating the slogans that inflame the crowds, in behalf of his third-party movement.

He will attempt to establish the American Independent party as a permanent force in all 50 states. He will encourage third-party candidates to run for state and local offices. Some insiders believe he will run for governor or Senator in Alabama himself in 1970 to gain a better platform for his next presidential campaign.

The only announcement Wallace has made is that he will return to his law practice. This has prospered in the past without his direct participation. His Montgomery, Ala., law firm — Wallace and Wallace — is run by his brother, Gerald "Sag" Wallace. The practice consists chiefly of clients who seek favors from the state.

The Wallace brothers had little money before George became governor. While George was scaling the political peaks, Sag soared to the financial heights, though he denies he's traded on his brother's name.

Alabama businessmen have complained that George Wallace has bled them dry of campaign funds. Some state contractors said they could no longer afford to do business with the state if he wrings any more money out of them to finance his constant politicking.

Wallace has also collected thousands of dollars from right-wing extremists who have

MASON DENISON

Auto Registration Fees

ONE FOR THE ROAD — Unquestionably the hassle over the Shafter Administration's determination to increase automobile registration fees by $50.5 million a year and truck fees by $14.6 million per annum this week produced something more than its share of bureaucratic flak.

For example, Secretary of Highways Robert G. Bartlett in a departmental publicity release criticized opponents of the proposed license fee increase, the funds from which would go for highway safety improvement projects throughout the state, and suggested that they "tell us which safety and improvement project should be deleted."

This left many a lawmaker scratching his head -- in downright irritation -- for after all, the mechanical chore of spelling out such program rests with the legislatively-created State Highway Commission (chaired by Secretary Bartlett), to be cued obviously to whatever funds are available, not what might be preferred.

"Apparently the Secretary has little faith in the Commission's abilities if he's asking so-called 'opponents' to do what is a Commission responsibility," snapped one nettled lawmaker from the western part of the state.

thoroughly infiltrated his movement. At least one extremist, Roy Harris, who publishes the right-wing Augusta, Ga., Courier, is a member of his inner circle.

In many states, the Wallace campaign was organized by the John Birch Society, which dispensed extremist Birchite literature out of Wallace-for-President headquarters. Bard Logan, a militant Bircher and chairman of the Wallace campaign in Texas, purged Wallace workers who weren't in sympathy with the John Birch Society.

At the local level, Birchers are now maneuvering for control of the American Independent party machinery that Wallace is attempting to install permanently in the 50 states.

Both George Wallace and the John Birch Society, apparently, are using one another for their own purposes.

"I am not going to denounce the John Birch Society," Wallace has said. "I know a few of its members in Alabama, and they are some of our finest citizens."

It is a measure of Wallace's political flexibility that he started out in politics as a moderate. He attended the famous 1948 Democratic convention as an alternate delegate. When Hubert Humphrey delivered his ringing civil rights speech that caused Strom Thurmond to lead a massive Southern walkout, Wallace, believe it or not, stayed behind.

He refused to join Thurmond's third-party movement in 1948 and remained a loyal Democrat. Now he has discovered he can make more political hay as a demagogue than a Democrat and is leading the third-party movement he had spurned 20 years ago. More on the future of George Wallace and his third party will follow in a future column.

The South is waiting to see what kind of judges Richard Nixon will appoint. In the past, Republican Presidents usually have appointed better Southern judges than Democratic Presidents because they didn't have to get their judges OK'd in advance by Southern Senators.

President Eisenhower, for instance, appointed some of the best judges the South has seen in a long time, including Elbert Tuttle in Atlanta, John Minor Wisdom in New Orleans, John R. Brown in Houston and Frank Johnson in Montgomery, Ala.

On the other hand, President Kennedy appointed the Ole Miss roommate of Sen. Jim Eastland, D-Miss., Judge Harold Cox, who once referred to Negroes as a "bunch of Niggers" and compared them to chimpanzees. Last week, however, Judge Cox handed down a directed verdict in a civil rights case which led to a $1,022,150 verdict against the Ku Klux Klan.

President Johnson appointed former Gov. James Coleman to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals and, although the appointment caused some criticism, Coleman has turned out to be a fair and forthright judge.

they went through their 46th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, elected officers, and heard Republican Governor Raymond Philip Shafter exhort them to work spiritedly toward victory in gubernatorial 1970.

A host of resolutions were considered by the ladies in convention gathered, including one on "Order Under Law" in which under "therefore, be it resolved," was this point:

"That the Parental Liability Law in Pennsylvania be enforced."

(Oh, come now girls, surely fellow Republican Governor Shafter is enforcing the law! And, under the "Taxation" heading was this resolve:

"That the Pennsylvania Council oppose a state income tax." (Again, this doesn't seem to be quite eye to eye with Republican Governor Shafter who asked for an income tax -- in fact proposed a "standby income tax.")

All of which perhaps just goes to show that not all members of the distasteful side are content to be snowed under by their male counterparts!

UPCOMING DEADLINE—Monday is the last day for county boards of elections to file with the Secretary of the Commonwealth returns from the General Election November 5 (which thereafter will provide an official statewide composite scoreboard).

JAMES RESTON

Waiting for Nixon

MOSCOW — American officials here are taking a fairly optimistic line about President-Elect Nixon's chances of reaching an accommodation with the Soviet Union on both military arms reduction and the Middle East during the first year of the new American administration.

This is based on their belief that the U.S.S.R., like the United States, needs to allocate much more of its material resources to the civilian economy, and secondly, also like the United States, fears that the Arab-Israeli controversy may get out of hand and lead to a U.S.-Soviet crisis in the Mediterranean.

In fairness, it should be noted that all estimates of Soviet intentions these days have to be based on the very little personal contact between foreign emissaries here and Soviet officials. The Moscow diplomatic corps has never been so isolated since the days of Stalin. Even at diplomatic receptions, which were a kind of roving press conference in the Nikita Khrushchev days, ambassadors and their ladies are now discreetly, and sometimes not so discreetly, directly away from personal conversation with the Soviet leaders.

This has certainly not encouraged foreign diplomats in Moscow to be very positive about Soviet officials or their intentions, especially after Moscow's invasion of Czechoslovakia. Yet the analysis of the major Western diplomats here is that the Soviet leaders want to talk about cutting the costs and risks of the arms race and the growing U.S.-Soviet military confrontation in the Mediterranean.

There is no urgent "crisis" on the home front here. The Soviet writers and artists question the ability of the aging politicians of the politburo to decide what is a good picture or an acceptable sonnet, but unlike Nixon, they are not faced with anything quite so immediate or physical as the Negro protests in the American cities or the demonstrations by the Students for a Democratic Society in the American universities. The young people here are not rebelling; they are bored. The problem in the Soviet Union is not personal or limited but general; the feeling is getting around that the Communist "system" is not working at home or abroad, and this widespread feeling here of falling behind the trend of the times -- and of not being able to do anything about it -- makes Nixon's problems seem almost comfortable.

So the Soviet leaders -- according to this analysis, at least -- are ready for talks, and maybe even for change, and they are waiting for Nixon to see whether he offers an excuse for a new beginning.

They are particularly interested in knowing what kind of men he will choose to head the State, Defense and Treasury Departments -- and ask endless questions about Douglas Dillon, Nelson Rockefeller, William Scranton and all the other possible candidates for high office in Washington.

They retain their doubts about Nixon, but never in the last 15 years has a visitor heard so little criticism of him as now, for they seem determined to keep their personal prejudices against him from getting in the way of their vital interests.

Accordingly, they are very cautious even about mentioning his name. Premier Kosygin warned Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee here this week that there was no future in the "negotiation of force." People who talked about "military superiority" as a means of discussing problems with the Soviet Union would get nowhere, he emphasized. He was obviously talking about Nixon, and using Nixon's campaign phrases, but he never mentioned his name.

Also Kosygin is not interested in discussing the Nixon administration with visiting American reporters. "It is a very delicate moment," his spokesman says. "We must wait for Mr. Nixon to speak first."

On the whole, this is a more encouraging picture of the Soviet Union's reaction to Nixon than one gets in Washington. Soviet officials are highly defensive about their action in Czechoslovakia. They are sharply critical of Secretary of State Rusk's call for stiffer defenses in Western Europe and his warnings about Soviet action against Yugoslavia and Austria. But they are talking peace in Vietnam and the Middle East, and arms control and negotiations with the Nixon administration, and even the isolated and aggrieved Western diplomats here seem to think they are serious.

"The first six months of the Nixon administration," one of them said yesterday, "may be more important than the following three and a half years. The new administration gives the Soviet leaders the chance for a new beginning, and for their own reasons at home, they may be willing to negotiate seriously."

Battle of Tarawa To Be Commemorated

LONDON (AP) — The 25th anniversary of the U.S. Marines' victory in the Battle of Tarawa, one of the bloodiest operations of the Pacific War, will be commemorated Saturday on tiny Betio Island.

It took the 2nd Marine Division 3½ days to recapture the island, which was heavily fortified and defended by Japanese marines. A thousand Americans were killed and more than 2,000 wounded. The Japanese lost 4,690 men.

To mark the 25th anniversary, the government of the Gilbert and Ellice Islands Colony is arranging a number of local events, the Crown Agents for Overseas Governments and Administrations announced in London.

A commemorative plaque will be placed at Betio harbor. An official U.S. military detachment will be among the visitors. Commemorative postage stamps are being issued.

There are plenty of relics to remind the visitor to Betio of the carnage a quarter of a century ago. But veterans of the battle will find the island once again covered with coconut palms and pandanus pines. New buildings line the small harbor and the place is swarming with people.

Thaw on Funds For Roads 'Fiscal Fakery'

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania Highways Secretary Robert G. Bartlett Thursday called the federal government's announced "thaw" on road funds "fiscal fakery at the federal level."

Bartlett said that he received notice from Washington Thursday morning that federal highway trust funds for new Pennsylvania projects will amount to $1.4 million in December.

But, he said, the state had not received any funds for new projects since the "freeze" was announced Sept. 6 after having anticipated an average of $25 to $30 million a month in federal funds in its 1968-1969 fiscal budget.

The result, he said, was that many projects are stopped cold as they come off the drawing board. The $1.4 million, Bartlett said, won't be enough to begin large scale projects such as the $35 million superstructure for the Girard Point Bridge in Philadelphia.

The problem, he said, is that Pennsylvania's $480 million highway budget for the current fiscal year is tied directly to receipt of $319 million in federal funds.

"The lifting of the freeze was a misrepresentation in fact," said Bartlett. "Pennsylvania now becomes the villain because actually the work will not begin though Washington says they are making these funds available."

Betio, which is only 2¼ miles long by half a mile at the widest point, is one of the islands which make up Tarawa atoll.

The Japanese moved in soon after Pearl Harbor, but for a time they did little to fortify the Gilbert and Ellice group, except to build a seaplane base on an island of Makin atoll. From this base their planes were able to attack shipping between the United States and Australia.

In August 1942, to divert Japanese forces from Guadalcanal, the Americans launched a raid, led by Lt. Col. E. P. Carlson, on the seaplane base.

It was successful, but its immediate effect was to cause the Japanese to rethink their defenses in the Group. They concentrated on Tarawa and turned Betio into a fortress, covered with a maze of bunkers, pillboxes and interconnecting trenches. Heavy coastal guns, sold to Japan by Britain during the Russo-Japanese war, were installed at either end.

In 1943 the Japanese were forced to the defensive. They were under heavy pressure in New Guinea and the Solomons. The Japanese fleet was badly mauled at Rabaul on Nov. 5.

The American forces mounted Operation Galvanic against the Gilbert group. Its three objectives were to capture Makin atoll with its seaplane base, Tarawa atoll and Abemama, an atoll some 75 miles southeast of Tarawa.

The 2nd Marine Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Julian Smith, was assigned to the attack on Tarawa.

In the early hours of Nov. 20 the guns of three battleships, five cruisers and nine destroyers opened up with a preliminary bombardment of Betio. Under cover of this barrage the assault troops moved in.

The tide was very low and the only assault craft which could cross the reef about 1,000 yards from shore were amphibious tractors, of which there was a limited number.

Col. David Shoup led the first troops which hit the shore just after 9 a.m. and despite heavy losses managed to establish a toehold. The slaughter began when the landing craft with the following waves grounded on the reef and the Leathernecks were forced to wade waist deep for hundreds of yards to the beach through crossfire.

By the end of the first day a beachhead some 300 yards deep had been established. The following day the issue remained in doubt until about noon, with reinforcements coming under very heavy fire.

Gradually the tide of battle turned and the Americans advanced from pillbox to pillbox. More reinforcements were landed on the island Nov. 22. A Japanese counterattack that night was beaten off.

The next morning the mopping up operation continued and at 1:12 p.m. on Nov. 23 Betio was declared secured. In a short ceremony the American and British flags were hoisted on adjacent palm trees.

ASM CHAPTER HEARS FABRICATION TALK

Damage May Reach $750,000 In Sunbury Fire

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP) — A five-hour battle by firemen finally subdued flames which attacked a business block in Sunbury Thursday, causing damage estimated unofficially at $750,000.

Firemen from Sunbury and various surrounding communities waged the battle after a city patrolman discovered the fire shortly before 7 a. m. The origin was not determined.

Destroyed in the blaze were three buildings, one of them vacant. It formerly housed the Hackett Hardware store. The others were occupied by separate men's and a women's clothing establishments, which had been heavily stocked with Christmas merchandise, fire officials said.

Damage also was caused to the Strand Theatre, and for a time other buildings in the Market Street block were threatened.

Cooperation Needed to Bring New Jobs to State

The trucking industry and industrial development groups must cooperate closely to bring new jobs to Pennsylvania, it was noted during the 35th annual convention of the American Trucking Associations in Miami Beach.

S. F. Ninness, president of Chemical Leaman Tank Lines Inc., Downingtown, Pa., stressed in a convention talk that closeness to good highway is the dominant factor in considering new plants sites.

The truckers must remain in a healthy competitive situation with other methods of transportation, he emphasized.

Behind the Scenes Groups Help Make Show Big Success

The success of any theatrical production depends on the performance of those offstage as well as those on stage, and the Warren High production, "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys!" is certainly no exception. The "behind the scenes committees" of this year's senior class play are considered by many the most effective ever organized for a high school production.

Bob Kates and Bill Dixon, co-chairmen of the traffic committee, have provided a fantastically vivid setting. Special credit goes to Bob in particular, for his many hours of hard work in designing the entire set of the play.

Chairman Linda Hofer of the property committee and her fellow workers have combed the county for over fifty pieces of essential props. The props obtained were donated by Levinson Brothers, committee members, and private donors.

This year's make-up committee, led by Penny Thompson and Judy Mastrian, proved that they are fully capable of creating extremely realistic facial features for all of the play's actors.

The industrious producer, Ann Mathis, said her job is, "Pulling it all together into a smooth and acceptable play." And candidly speaking, according to those who have seen previews she deserves a rating of triple A plus!

The publicity chairman, Carole Greenlund, has seen to it that the public is well informed about the play with announcements on the local station and illustrated posters all over Warren.

Becky Pees, chairman of the costume committee, and her "comrades in thread" have supplied the "all-star" cast with intricate costumes that fit each character perfectly.

All these people, including the entire senior class have obviously made this play the best equipped ever. Tickets for Friday night, the Saturday matinee, and the Saturday night performance can be obtained from any W.A.H.S. senior.

The dates for the play are tonight and Saturday with an admission of fifty cents for students and one dollar for adults.

The combination of an advisory committee, headed by Mr. Bowen, Mrs. Muir, and Mrs. Bryan, along with the organization of the senior class, will unquestionably create the best two hours of entertainment ever witnessed in the high school auditorium.

Bomb Scare Evacuates School

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — A bomb scare at Rowe Junior High School in Conneaut forced the evacuation of about 400 students Thursday.

Police said a male voice called a school secretary at 2:41 and said a bomb would go off in five minutes. The students were evacuated in about 10 minutes as police and firemen searched the building.

The students were put on buses and taken out of the area during the search and school was dismissed for the day.

Injuries Deplete Ranks Of All-American Hopefuls

CHICAGO (AP) — The collegiate football campaign ends in the Midwest Saturday much like the Charge of the Light Brigade as far as All-American hopefuls are concerned.

Talented players were felled left and right by a withering bombardment of crippling blocks and tackles, leaving only a handful of healthy candidates in the hopper of The Associated Press' regional All-American board.

Heading the list is Michigan's record-breaking halfback, Ron Johnson, who gets an acid final test in a Big Ten title showdown against second-ranked Ohio State Saturday at Columbus.

Other blue chip All-American prospects include offensive tackles Dave Foley and Rufus Mayes, a pair of 6-foot 5, 250-pound generators for high-voltaged Ohio State; split end Jim Seymour, an all-time Notre Dame great receiver, and an Irish teammate, offensive tackle George Kunz, a prime pro prospect.

Nicklaus Out For Year

WEST PALM BEACH, FLA. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus canceled all golf commitments for the rest of the year Thursday because of a small broken bone in his right foot.

Nicklaus said he had no idea when the bone was broken, but the foot started bothering him near the end of the summer and recently became inflamed.

"There's nothing to do but stay off the foot for awhile," Nicklaus said. "I want to be feeling good at the start of the winter tour."

Dickinson Denies Report Of Conspiring A Boycott

NEW YORK (AP) — Gardner Dickinson Jr., president of the American Professional Golfers, denied Thursday that the APG is conspiring to boycott the PGA championship in Dayton, Ohio, next August.

"The basis for this charge is not clear," Dickinson said in a statement, referring to a law suit filed by the Professional Golfers Association.

"We deny that any player has stated his intention not to play in the PGA championship if eligible. There is not a single player who has refused to play."

Dickinson's statement was in reaction to an amendment filed by the PGA to its suit in U.S. District Court in Wilmington, Del. In its latest action, the PGA charges that the APG and its members are engaged in a conspiracy to boycott the PGA tournament.

The APG was created earlier this year by four golfers who broke away from the PGA in a dispute over control of the tour. The APG says 194 of the 205 tour golfers have signed with the new group.

The problem with entries for the PGA tournament, one of the three biggest of the year, stems from the lack of certainty over who will be eligible for the tournament.

The PGA provides several categories of eligibility. For example, either the top 70 money winners or the golfers with the 70 lowest average scores in tournaments in the year prior to the PGA tournament are eligible.

Also eligible are winners of PGA cosponsored tournaments played since the last PGA.

The prime question now, and one which concerns the Dayton Chamber of Commerce, cosponsor of the August tournament, is whether the PGA will consider winners of APG cosponsored tournaments eligible.

The APG says it has 22 tournaments lined up, the first one scheduled for Los Angeles in January.

When the tour golfers formed the APG, they said they would honor any existing contracts for PGA cosponsored tournaments. The only two such tournaments, however, are the PGA and the Bob Hope Classic.

are: defensive back Tom Curtis of Michigan; flanker Jade Butcher of Indiana; and such smaller school standouts as quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati, nationally No. 1 in total offense and No. 2 in passing, quarterback Cleve Bryant of unbeaten Ohio University, and Cincinnati's Tom Rossley, the nation's No. 2 receiver.

It was a season of frustration for injury-slowed Leroy Keyes, Purdue's erstwhile Heisman trophy candidate, and super passer Terry Hanratty of Notre Dame, shelved by knee surgery after seven games.

Injuries also dimmed the All-American chances of fine line-backer Rich Saul of Michigan State; Indiana's great two-some of quarterback Harry Gonso and halfback John Isenbarger; and Ohio State's remarkable sophomore quarterback, Rex Kern.

Michigan's Johnson zoomed his All-American stock last Saturday with a fantastic display in the mud against Wisconsin, ripping to an NCAA single game record of 347 rushing yards and matching fabled Red Grange's Big Ten record of five touchdowns in one game.

Nationally, Johnson rates No. 3 with 1,300 rushing yards in nine games, behind famed O.J. Simpson of Southern California, No. 2 with 1,449 in eight games, and Gene Morris of West Texas State, No. 1 with 1,571 in 10 games.

San Diego State Tops Minor Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
San Diego State remained the No. 1 small college football team Thursday but has to worry about Tennessee State and Utah State before clinching first place for the third straight year.

The Aztecs received 13 of 16 first place votes and 314 points in the latest balloting among The Associated Press' panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

San Diego State is the only one of the top three teams that hasn't finished its season. They play Tennessee State this Saturday and Utah State Nov. 30. North Dakota State, which has closed its season at 9-0, is second in the poll with 270 points while New Mexico Highlands, also finished at 9-0, ranks third with 209. Those teams also were second and third last week.

There was, however, a shuffle among the rest of the top 20. Chattanooga, 8-1, advanced from fifth to fourth; Indiana, Pa., 9-0, shot up from ninth to fifth; Texas A&M, 8-1, moved up one spot to sixth, and Tampa, 7-2, dropped from fourth to seventh.

Eastern Michigan, 8-2, rocketed from nowhere to eighth; Western Kentucky, 8-1-1, slipped from eighth to ninth, and Eastern Kentucky, 7-2, fell from sixth to 10th.

Tidioute And Ike Open Cage Season

Potent North East Will Tussle With Knights In Home Fracas

By DAVE PIRILLO

Six returning lettermen will augment the 1968-69 Tidioute Bulldogs as they open their season tonight at home against the Jamestown, Pa. Muskies. The Bulldogs will attempt to better their 3-17 state of the previous year.

Coach Jim Bodamer, in his third year at the Tidioute helm has a 5-28 overall record. However, he looks for his cagers to possibly break even with their 20 game schedule and have the best record at Tidioute in ten years.

Ed Ziegler, Tidioute's top point maker for 1967-68, was lost to graduation. Ziegler paced the team with an 18.0 average. Mark Rondinelli, a 5-foot 9-inch junior, will try to slip into Ziegler's shoes. Last year, Rondinelli averaged 17.5 points per game. Bodamer will use the junior in a guard position.

Scott McKay, a 5-foot 9-inch senior letterman will handle the other guard position for the Orange and Black. Bodamer's starting forwards will be senior Ron Carr and Ed King, a junior. Both lads stand 5-foot 11-inches tall, and are letter winners. Jack Shields will be tipping the ball at center. Shields will be relied on heavily for his defensive work under the boards.

Tidioute is likely to have defensive problems for their first couple of games or so, but with a little more experience and no crippling injuries, they should come along. A lack of height on the starting five will be a factor the Bulldogs will be forced to cope with.

The tallest man on the team is Tom Jameson. Jameson stands at 6-foot 2-inches, but is out of action until after the Thanksgiving holidays with a cast on his leg.

Cajun In A 2-Way Tie

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Dave Stockton, trying to boost his earnings for the year past the $100,000 mark, and ex-club pro Frank Boynton tamed Oakbourne Country Club Thursday with a pair of 66s and shared the early first round lead in the $35,000 Cajun Classic golf tournament.

It is the year's final PGA event, and the $5,000 first place check is Stockton's target. He has already won $96,029.

The start of first round play was delayed for more than an hour in the morning because of thick fog. It meant that the day's late starters might not finish 18 holes by dark and would have to complete their rounds early Friday.

Stockton toured the 6,555-yard course which plays at par 36-36-72 in 35-31. He had seven birdies and one bogey. One of his birdies came on a 40-foot putt at No. 8.

Boynton, who returned to the tour this year after four seasons at a country club, carded a 34-32, with six birdies. Boynton, winner of $32,800, and Stockton were tied for the first round lead at San Francisco earlier this season.

Four little known pros were bunched at 67 just behind the coleaders. They were Tom Shaw, Dale Douglass, Bob E. Smith and Herb Hooper.

Bodamer thinks his charges will hold their own over the year. He looks for a tough Upper Allegheny Valley League with the Spartans of Spartansburg having the brightest outlook. He also sees the Eagles of Youngsville making a strong bid for the top slot.

Bodamer believes that if he can stay ahead of a team for the first half, then his team has the material to keep the periods. As an example, he uses the Northern Area game of last year. In that game the Bulldogs held a four point advantage at the sound of the first half buzzer. They kept the pace for the rest of the game in pulling the upset. It was the same case when the Bulldogs overturned the Bears of Marienville. They held a three point edge for most of the entire game.

Game time this evening is 8:00 p.m. The Jayvees will start action at 6:30.

Another Girl Jockey

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky State Racing Commission received an application Thursday from a second woman to ride in American thoroughbred racing.

Diane Crump, a 20-year-old Floridian who has been exercising horses at Churchill Downs, submitted her papers.

A spokesman for the commission said the application will be acted upon later but gave no specific date.

The Eisenhower Knights will open their 1968-69 basketball season tonight by hosting the North East cagers. The NE Grapepickers advanced as far as the State semi-finals last year and should give Ike a grueling battle in the opening independent tilt.

Game times are set at Jayvee 6:30 p.m. and the varsity contest starting at 8:00.

Ike welcomes four lettermen back including Bob Russell, Bart Lohnes, Alan Swanson and Greg Johnson. Russell is the tall man on the squad standing 6-1 while Lohnes, Swanson, and Johnson average around 5-10.

The lettermen will most likely get the starting nod; however, the fifth spot remains a toss-up. The position could go to either Allan Jones, Ken Burford, Randy Phillips, Bob North, Dave Allenson or Wayne Lundmark.

Cager Martin Hoffner will be idle for Ike until next week when he has his cast removed from a football injury.

Head coach Ron Dunbar lists hustle and desire as one of the team's assets along with a fast running game when they get the chance. Dunbar in his first season as head coach can only wait until he sees his cagers perform against opposition before detecting the weaknesses.

Chemist's Credibility Is Issue In Derby Hearing

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Counsel for Peter Fuller asserted Thursday that the outcome of the Daner's Image case revolved around one issue: The consistency and truthfulness of testimony supplied by the state chemist.

"There is only one man in the whole United States who says, from his knowledge, this horse had phenylbutazone in his urine. Only one."

Attorney Arthur Grafton then paused briefly before identifying that man as Kenneth Smith. It was Smith, the chemist at Churchill Downs, who reported discovery of the drug which cost Fuller's colt first money in the Kentucky Derby last May 4.

"Now if Mr. Smith is both competent and honest is one thing," Grafton told the Kentucky State Racing Commission. "But if Mr. Smith is incompetent or if his testimony is untruthful, it is an entirely different thing."

fresh Smith's memory on testimony given at a Churchill Downs stewards' hearing last May and that he was supplying Thursday.

The stewards ordered a redistribution of the purse after winding up its investigation, and Fuller, the wealthy Boston auto dealer, has appealed. The $122,600 top award was held in escrow.

Grafton pointed out that Smith, during his appearance before the stewards, testified that he had made only five tests on the urine but now was saying he had run another series on the Monday following the Derby.

In his original testimony, Smith informed the stewards the tests he ran were those approved by the American Association of Official Racing Chemists, of which he is a member.

He said these tests were outlined in a 1964 publication put out by the organization. Grafton argued, however, that the recommendations had been updated in 1967 to include two more tests which Smith did not use. He was asked why.

"In my mind," Smith explained, "I don't adopt these new procedures just because they are published, I want to try them out myself first."

An argument then ensued as to whether these tests were "recommended" or "required" of AORC members. George Rabe, counsel for the commission, pointed out that AORC is a voluntary organization.

Earlier in Thursday's session, Grafton again attacked credibility of one of Smith's tests which indicated phenylbutazone was present in the urine.

TURKEYS GALORE STARTLE WARREN HUNTER

Merritt Thomas was scouting for deer signs Thursday afternoon, but instead he found turkey—a lot of turkeys—in fact, forty turkeys, all in one big, snuggly flock.

Thomas, of 518 W. 5th avenue, was in the area between Rt. 337 and Hearts Content, his favorite deer hunting territory, when he stumbled across some indistinguishable tracks in the deep snow.

A few minutes following the trail showed him that he was tracking turkeys. Ten minutes later, Thomas crept over the top of a ridge and there were forty gobblers feeding nonchalantly under a red oak sixty yards away.

One shot from his 220 Swift dropped a 14-pound bird for Thomas' Thanksgiving dinner, and the startled hunter observed the rest of the flock flap leisurely into the overhead trees, apparently little disturbed by the loss of their erstwhile member.

Thomas pegged all the birds as at least as big as his prize.

Jockeys Boycott Penny Ann's Bid

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Jockeys boycotted the ninth race at Churchill Downs Thursday, thwarting Penny Ann Early's attempt to become the first woman to ride in American thoroughbred racing.

Miss Early, 25, was scheduled to ride the 2-year-old filly, Witness, in the ninth race. However, no other jockeys were willing to ride their mounts. The race was canceled.

"I'm disappointed and disgusted," Miss Early said. "They (the jockeys) are calling themselves men, but I have no respect for them as riders or men. None of them could look me in the eye."

Miss Early originally was slated to ride in the fourth race, but Churchill Downs officials switched it with the ninth race because no jockeys could be found.

"I'm just sitting here, listening to them all back out," Miss Early said. "All the trainers are scratching their horses." Jockey Bob Cook said, "I was going to ride against her, but they wouldn't let me. I was too heavy (at the weigh-in)."

Another rider scheduled for Miss Early's race, Glenn Grogan, said he told Miss Early he would ride against her. "If all the other guys were going to," "I'd love to ride," Grogan said, "but all the guys are sticking together. This is our living. It's rough out there."

Miss Early's first two attempts to ride since obtaining a temporary jockey's license from the State Racing Commission last week was threatened by boycotts, but Thursday's was the first to materialize.

Her scheduled mount last Saturday was scratched because of unfavorable track conditions, and she was taken off her Tuesday ride when the trainer substituted the regular jockey.

Unless Miss Early can secure two rides sometime during the next 10 days, a racing commission will assume she cannot get a mount.

Lewis Finley, the steward representing the commission, said she must have two rides before the commission will consider a permanent license.

Shortly after the announcement that the ninth race had been canceled, Miss Early and the owner of Witness, Wayne Moran, appeared at a news conference.

Miss Early said that she will consult her lawyer about possible legal action. She indicated such action would be taken against the Jockey Guild.

"I'm not out on a crusade for women," she said, "I just want to ride."

As for her future plans, Miss Early said she will rest for a short while, then go to California.

Market Upset By Money Crisis

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was upset Thursday by the international monetary crisis and by prospects of a slowdown in the auto industry but the worst losses in the market were cut back in an active finish.

Volume climbed to 18,32 million share from 15,91 million Tuesday.

Turnover was boosted as usual by the Wednesday closing during which orders were accumulated for the next session.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was down only 1.62 at 965.13, but for a good part of the day the average showed a loss exceeding 5 points.

It was the broadest market in history, with 1,639 issues traded. Of these 749 declined and 686 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 155 and new lows 9.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped .9 to 359.4 with industrials off 1.4, rails unchanged and utilities off 1.0.

The New York Stock Exchange index dropped 5 cents to $59.86.

Spartan Industries, off 1/2 at 26 3/4 on 395,500 shares, was the volume leader. It ran far ahead of the list on volume early in the day when it changed hands on a block of 375,000 shares, off 1/2 at 27. Apparently was a swap between large institutional investors.

Lionel, which was the most active stock Tuesday, ran in second place, unchanged at 13 1/2.

A block of 10,000 shares helped make Gulf & Western third most active. It dipped 1/4 at 54 3/4.

Gold mining stocks were stimulated, as they usually are, by the uncertainty over currency.

American South African rose 1 1/2, Benguet 3/4, Campbell Red Lake 3/4, Dome Mines 1 1/4, Homestake 2 1/4 and McIntyre Porcupine 1 1/2.

A very dry performance by blue chips, especially motors and steels in view of the poor forecasts about auto production, served as an early dampener.

Even with a partial recovery, many of these stocks came out losers. Ford lost 2 1/2, General Motors 1 1/4, Jones & Laughlin 2, U.S. Steel 1/2, Chrysler 1/2 and American Motors 3/4.

Marines Home on Leave

Marine Pvt. Gerald V. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. LaVern White of 400 E. 5th Ave., Warren, was enlisted on June 28, 1968 with Pvt. Curtis Brew, William Young and Jim Samuelson in the Marine Corps Buddy Plan. After undergoing basic training at Parris Island, S. C., they had infantry training at Camp Le Jeune, N.C., where Jerry specialized in anti-tank warfare. Jerry, a 1968 graduate of Warren Area High School, is presently home on a twenty-day leave, upon completion he will undergo advanced infantry training at Camp Pendleton, Calif. prior to going overseas sometime early next year.

PVT. WHITE

PVT. SAMUELSON

Marine Pvt. James M. Samuelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Titus of 14 Wilson Ave., Warren, is also home on a twenty-day leave, enroute to Camp Pendleton, Calif., where he will undergo advanced infantry training, prior to going overseas early next year. Jim has specialized as a machine gunner, and was taught the basics at infantry training at Camp Le Jeune, N.C., which every Marine attends regardless of his job specialty.

PVT. CONSTABLE

PFC. SHENE

Marine Pvt. William John Constable, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Constable of 570 Miller Hill rd., Warren, enlisted on July 25, 1968, and is currently home on a twenty-day leave prior to attending Artillery School at Camp Pendleton, Calif. Bill, a 1967 graduate of Eisenhower High School, says he plans on continuing his education while in the service to the fullest possible extent.

Marine Pvt. Curtis W. Brew, son of Mrs. Dorothy Brew of 226 Buchanan st., Warren, and husband of Mrs. Marjorie Brew of Allegheny, N.Y., is presently home enjoying leave after undergoing infantry training at Camp Le Jeune, N.C. Curt is a 1968 graduate of Warren Area High School and was employed locally prior to his enlistment for two years.

Marine Pvt. I-C William F. Shene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Shene of 252 Stone Hill rd., Warren, enlisted in the Marine Corps on July 24, 1968 with an aviation guarantee, a four-year enlistment guaranteeing an assignment of aviation duty upon successful completion of recruit training. Pfc. Shene was honorably promoted to his present rank during ceremonies on Graduation Day at Parris Island, S.C., having bestowed on him an honor which only ten percent of the platoon can receive on graduation day for outstanding performance of duty. Upon completion of his twenty-day leave, Bill will be going to Memphis, Tenn. for advanced schooling as a Marine aircraft technician.

A reminder to all young men who are faced with military obligation. The opportunity to enlist does exist even after a man has been found qualified and received his induction notice. Enlistment has to be completed 24 hours prior to his induction day. For more information about life in the military, school opportunities, travel and other benefits contact S-Sgt. Edward F. Barry Jr. at 434 Penna ave. W. or by calling 723-2611 or 723-7495.

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Public Utility Commission urged federal authorities Thursday to prevent discontinuance of two Penn Central passenger trains between Harrisburg and Buffalo, N. Y.

Pending before the federal Interstate Commerce Commission is a petition by Penn Central to abolish trains 574 and 575, effective on or about Dec. 8.

The PUC asked the federal agency to suspend the proposal for public hearings. The PUC said such hearings are necessary to "protect the interest of the public in the affected areas of Pennsylvania."

The state commission said the two trains provide the only rail service available at Millersburg, Sunbury, Milton, Williamsport, Renovo, Emporium, and other communities.

Commerce Dept. Officials Visit Warren County

Stewart Brannan, special projects officer, Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, Daniel B. Boyer, Jr., director, Bureau of Statistics, and Robert T. Shepherd, editor, publications division, Conway Research, Inc., Atlanta, Georgia, spent Thursday in Warren in a preliminary inspection as part of a special study of travel investment opportunities.

The men conferred with officials of the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau and were taken to both the east and west sides of the Allegheny Reservoir by Charles R. Tranter, the bureau's executive director.

Also in the group was Howard Irons, executive director of the Northwest Planning and Development Commission of which Warren County is a part, and William Rustin, county planner. The visitors also had the opportunity to meet the Warren County Commissioners and had dinner last evening with the executive committee of the vacation bureau and Colonel Wayne Nichols of the Army Corps of Engineers.

The Kinzua area has been selected by the state department of commerce as one of six places in Pennsylvania to be studied by Conway Research Inc., an Atlanta-based consulting firm which has a long record in the field of industrial development.

The emphasis in Warren and Forest Counties will be on collecting information that will be of interest in attracting investors for the development of resort facilities in the area.

The vacation bureau has been working with the department of commerce for the past several months in setting up a development program that will lead to the first complete resort complex in the area.

Officials of the department and of Conway Research will make further trips to Warren in the next few months in the preparation of the study report.

Workman Killed

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — A workman at Waldameer Amusement Park was killed Thursday when he was struck on the head by a 40-foot poplar tree which was toppled by heavy winds.

Erie County coroner Merle Wood said the victim apparently died from head injuries but ordered an autopsy.

House Passes Two Bills To Reduce Number of JP's

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House approved Thursday five bills that were part of a 14-bill package of implementing legislation to a new judiciary article in the state constitution.

Approval came on the eve of the day which the lawmakers hoped would wind up the 1968 session, but a partisan fight over remaining bills in the package could delay adjournment.

Two of the measures passed by the House would revise the state's minor judiciary system with the aim of reducing the number of justices of the peace and aldermen.

Broad Program Planned To Relax Racial Tensions

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission outlined Thursday a broad program aimed at relaxing racial tensions in Pennsylvania's capital city.

The commission, issuing its proposals in the form of recommendations to the city government and school officials, described Harrisburg as suffering from "urban blight" that has "to date been beyond the capabilities of local authorities, even with state and federal funding support." The recommendations included establishment of a city Human Relations Commission with enforcement power in cases of discrimination, new housing programs, re-orienting the educational system to the growing number of black pupils and human relations training for all city employees.

While the recommendations lack the force of direct government orders, the commission noted if affirmative action is not started, it intended to "take such further steps as specified by law."

The commission report, based on hearings last May, included recommendations for: — More professional and non-professional Negro employees in the schools.

— Review of textbooks and curriculum by an interracial committee to determine their adequacy "in portraying minority-group people and their contributions to society."

— Development of new low-income housing units through available federal programs and through encouragement of private industry initiative.

Mishap Causes $1,000 Damage

Four persons escaped injury early Thursday in a two-car crash which caused an estimated $1,000 damage, according to state police of the local substation.

The mishap occurred at 8 a.m. on Route 958, police stated, when a car operated by Kay E. Sechrist, Bear Lake, swerved to avoid hitting a car pulling off the roadway. The Sechrist vehicle slid off the road and hit a bridge rail. The impact of the crash forced the rear of the Sechrist vehicle to slide into the lane of oncoming traffic, striking a car operated by Thomas Jay Cortright, 565 Kinzua rd.

Damage to the Sechrist vehicle was set at $700, police said, while the estimated damage to the Cortright car was $300.

674 in County Receive Long-Term Institutional Care

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau) HARRISBURG — Records of the State Department of Public Welfare indicated yesterday that 674 Warren Countians were receiving long-term institutional care during August — up five from the previous month. Sixty-seven of these were in nursing homes with payments during the month totaling $10,619, including 46 old age assistance ($6692), seven blind persons ($1315), and 14 on aid to disabled assistance ($2612). State institutions cared for 607 persons classified as mentally ill received $127,142 in care during August.

Of the $137,761 spent in the county during the month, the state share is $61,163, and the federal government $76,598.

Icy Roads Create Trouble For Borough Motorists

One man is injured and property damages total $1,700 as snow and icy roads continue to create problems for borough motorists.

Newton F. Charlesworth, 731 Jackson Run rd., was admitted to Warren General Hospital with a concussion and severe lacerations of the scalp, according to a hospital spokesman, following a one-car accident at 2:25 a.m. Thursday.

The mishap occurred on Conewango ave. east of Third st., borough police reported, when Charlesworth driving south on Conewango ave. lost control of his car, crossed the center line, and struck a speed-limit sign. After striking the sign, police said, the Charlesworth vehicle traveled another 30 feet striking a utility pole, and knocking down about 10 feet of iron fence.

According to police, damage to the Charlesworth vehicle was estimated at $1,175. Damage to the utility pole and fence was set at $25.

A two-car accident at 9:19 p.m. Wednesday resulted in a total of $400 damage to cars operated by Erma B. Dibble, 206 North Irvine st. and Jonathan Paul Scalise, 25 W. Third st.

According to police, damage to each car was $200 when the Dibble vehicle traveling south on Conewango ave. was unable to stop at the traffic light at Conewango and Fifth st. due to the icy conditions of the pavement, and was struck by the Scalise vehicle, eastbound through the intersection.

There were no injuries reported. Police said Dibble will be charged with driving too fast for conditions.

A hit and run accident, which occurred sometime Wednesday, is also under investigation by borough police.

The accident occurred on Water st. west of East st., police said when an unknown vehicle struck a legally parked car owned by Alice M. Christensen, RD 1, Russell, damaging the right front fender. Damage to the Christensen vehicle was set at $100, police stated.

FBLA Attends Regional Convention

The Warren Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America was among four chapters attending the FBLA regional convention in Ridgway, Charles Mullen, club sponsor, and Edward Miller, regional sponsor, supervised the 28 students attending from Warren.

At the convention were members of the Warren, Ridgway, Youngsville and Irquois (Erie) chapters. Members of the Union City chapter were unable to attend the conference.

Warren students were met by members of the Ridgway FBLA and its adviser, James Russo. Dinner followed registration. Following dinner, chapters were entertained by members of the Ridgway student body.

Paula Barber, Youngsville, regional president, conducted the business meeting. Each chapter president gave a resume of chapter activities the past year.

Shafer Asks Rededication To Excellence

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gov. Shafer proposed Thursday night that Pennsylvanians rededicate their efforts to the pursuit of excellence.

Speaking at an awards dinner for 10 outstanding citizens given by the Governor's Committee of 100,000 Pennsylvanians, Shafer cited the group as examples of success in the pursuit of excellence.

Those honored were writers Pearl Buck and Catherine Bower, educator Milton G. Baker, journalist Homer Bigart, symphony conductor Eugene Ormandy, scientists Presper Eckert, John W. Mauchly and Britton Chance, industrialist Robert M. Blough, and athlete Robin Roberts.

"We honor a broad variety of excellence here tonight," Shafer said, "a variety that points out to us just how extremely individual and personal a quality excellence is."

"The strength and character found in these individuals is a national asset at a time when our world gives all the appearances of falling apart."

"From their strength, and that of others with the courage to pursue excellence when mediocrity is too often rewarded today, we can find the new energy we need to create a great age — and a great age is what we must have if we are to prevent a collapse of the upward striving of human beings."

TOM TOM By Tom Warco

Thanks to a slight error on the part of our paper, S. Knox Harper, of Harper & Clinger, attorneys, is taking quite a bit of ribbing from his colleagues about a six foot rabbit. We referred to him as Harvey instead of Harper. But really, can you think of anyone who would make a nicer six foot rabbit? Our apologies, Harvey... er, Mr. Harper!

"The Whole Town's Talking About the Mickle's Boy" could easily have been the title of the song made famous by the Mills Brothers some years ago.

Nineteen years ago, Gary Mickle, of RD 1, Clarendon, slept in a room with nineteen girls. He chose the girl in the bed next to him to be his bride. The juiciest part of the gossip is that she is an older woman.

Gary Mickle and Becky Alquist slept side by side in the maternity ward at Warren General Hospital, with Becky arriving there on December 10, 1948, and Gary on December 12th. Gary was the only boy in the ward of nineteen girls.

Although they were not neighbors, they grew up together and had their first official date in junior high school. This blossomed into a steady romance in high school and will be finalized in solemn vows at the Lutheran Church in Warren on November 30th.

Gary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carter of Clarendon. Becky is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alquist, Pine Blvd. Mrs. Carter is a member of the hard-working crew at the East Side Sandwich Shop.

Marine L/Cpl. Robert E. Sherlock, son of Mrs. Marjorie Hulberg of Chanders Valley, Pa., will celebrate his 20th birthday, Nov. 24th, while serving with the 5th Marines in Vietnam. Bob joined the Marine Corps Nov. 8, 1967 and is a 1967 graduate of Youngsville High School. He would like to hear from his friends, his address is: L/Cpl. Robert E. Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm ashamed to talk to my minister about this and my doctor won't take my problem seriously. When I tried to discuss it with him on two occasions he gave me some sample envelopes of tranquilizers and said, "Try these. All mothers go through this when their children are little."

My children are 2½ and 4½ years old. They are driving me crazy. Every morning I resolve to be pleasant and gentle with them. By noon I am shrieking my head off and punishing at every turn. By nightfall I am praying again, "Dear God, please forgive me for being so impatient with my children."

Why must children test their mothers to the limit of their tolerance? Do they ever learn to do as they are told the first time? I've read that youngsters love to please their parents. I don't believe it. Mine have received a great deal more love and attention than most, yet they seem determined to ignore me and do as they please.

Sometimes I don't think I'll make it through the next three years, when they both will be in school. Can you say something that will help me keep my sanity? Please try. — FALLING APART

DEAR FALLING: Every mother has had days and such days should be expected. But if you are having weeks and months of frustration, screaming and punishing followed by guilt feelings and periods of depression, you need outside help. Tranquilizers are no answer. Many cities have counseling programs offered through mental health clinics. Some are free, others charge a nominal fee. Write to the National Association for Mental Health, Inc., 10 Columbus Circle, New York, N. Y. 10019.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister's son, Tex, is going into the service next month. He and his wife have been married less than six months. A family dispute has arisen over where Tex's wife should stay. She cannot afford to keep the apartment. The girl is 17 and has less sense than my Angora cat. She wants to move in with a girl friend whose husband left for Vietnam two months ago.

I say the child belongs with her parents. Also, wouldn't it be a good idea if she went back to high school and got a little more education? Please don't tell me to M.Y.O.B. Tex's mother is a widow and she has asked for my advice. I told her I was no Ann Landers but I offered to write for your opinion. Please help. — STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Of course the girl would be better off with her parents and it would be a good idea if she returned to school, but she's a married woman now (even though your cat has more sense) and nobody can tell her what to do. Suggest it (in a low key manner) and hope she listens.

Confidential to Will He Or Won't He?: My guess is he won't. Why should he? The sample was ample.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WOMAN'S CLUB SLEEPWEAR SHOW

The Woman's Club Thursday morning was the scene of the annual Sleepwear Show which followed the serving of sweet rolls and coffee. Among those who displayed fashions from Levinson's in informal modeling, were, from left, Master Kevin Mead, Mrs. James Potter, Mrs. A. F. Yerg and Mrs. Winston Teague. The other young fellow is David Yerg. Also modeling but not pictured were Mrs. M. J. Smargya, Mrs. E. J. Mattison and Mrs. Michael Mead. (Photo by Mansfield)

Baptist Women's Guest Speaker

William Erickson, center director of the Blue Jay Civilian Conservation Corps, was guest speaker for Tuesday's meeting of First Baptist Women.

Accompanied by two corpsmen, Nathaniel Lee, of Windsor, N.C. and James Pittman, of New York City, the speaker told of the background of the Job Corps and the good work it is doing. Erickson urged members to write to their senators to encourage them to keep the job corps program in effect.

Mrs. Carl Whipple opened the meeting with devotions and during a short business meeting, Mrs. Emma Geary, White Cross chairman, reported five large boxes of clothing had been sent to Delta Ministry in Greenville, Miss.

Members of John Southwell Circle served refreshments to conclude the meeting.

Ever think of adding quartered eggs to condensed pepper pot soup?

Will Present Book Review

The book, "A Portrait in Words and Pictures," by Erica Anderson, featuring the life of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, will be reviewed by Mrs. Norman Johnson at the monthly meeting of Lutheran Church Women of St. John's Lutheran Church, Pleasant township, at 8 p. m., Monday.

Guests for this special program will be LCW members of First Lutheran and St. Paul's Lutheran churches.

Hostesses are Mrs. Duane Baker and Mrs. Raymon Billstone, assisted by other members of the organization.

St. John women are asked to come at 7:15 p. m. that evening for a short business meeting to be conducted by Mrs. Martin Carlson, vice president. Thankoffering boxes are to be received and members are also asked to bring Christmas cards for Warren State Hospital patients and contributions for the shut-ins' Thanksgiving boxes.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Rolunda Barrett-Randall Darts

United Presbyterian Church of North Warren was the scene of a double ring ceremony which recently united in marriage Rolunda Jean Barrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Barrett, of 109 Liberty st., Russell and Randall T. Darts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Darts, Liberty street, Russell.

The Rev. Nelson Beck officiated before 100 guests. Two baskets of white gladioli adorned the altar.

Mrs. Kathy Johnson was matron of honor and wore orchid chiffon over satin with head-dress of orchid chiffon petals. She carried a bouquet of orchid tipped carnations.

Junior bridesmaids were sisters of the bride, Ella and Diana Barrett, both clad in yellow satin floor length gowns with empire waist trimmed with green satin ribbon and bow with streamers at the neckline. Yellow bows formed their head-dress and both carried yellow tipped carnations. The gowns were made by the bride's mother, Mrs. Betty Barrett.

David Johnson of Russell served as best man and ushers were Eldon Birt, Russell, serving with the U.S. Air Force and now en route to Vietnam and Pat Casey, Russell.

The bride, escorted by her father, was attired in white satin with rounded low neck featuring rose appliques, long sleeves and full length train, her gown featuring a chiffon overdress with rose appliques and seed pearls, made by Ethel Hotelling. An elbow length veil depended from white chiffon petals spotted with seed pearls.

The bride's mother wore a gold knit dress with coat to match, black accessories and red carnation corsage. The mother of the bridegroom chose navy blue knit with red carnation corsage.

The grandmothers present, Mrs. Ella Gardner, Mrs. Kirk Darts and Mrs. Birdilla Barrett, were favored with carnation corsages.

White streamers decorated Fellowship Hall where a reception was held for 100 guests. Aides were Cheryl Hotelling, Judy Bailey, Sharon and Suzanne Gardner, Cindy Gardner, Ronna Anderson and Linda Smith.

For her honeymoon trip, the bride wore a frock of turquoise crepe. The couple is now at home at 25 Main st., Russell. The new Mrs. Darts, a 1968 graduate of Eisenhower High School, is employed at Sylvan Electric Products, Warren and the bridegroom, a 1965 Eisenhower graduate, is employed at Crescent Tool Co., Jamestown, N.Y.

Out-of-town guests in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Darts, Mrs. Min Bradigan, Falconer, N.Y.; Mrs. Janet Bar-more, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bar-more, Gerry, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Valentine, Jamestown, N.Y. and Mr. and Mrs. William Barrett, Alle-gany, N.Y.

Russell WCTU Met Tuesday

The Russell WCTU met at the home of Mrs. Harold Granquist, Lander road, Tuesday for a tureen lunch.

The Warren County WCTU president Mrs. Harold Richael was guest speaker and reported on the state WCTU convention held in Erie during October. Mrs. Richael stressed the need for new members, mentioned new state officers elected and spoke of two state workers available for work in the schools.

The Russell Union was presented a Fruitful Union certificate and the treasurer, Lucy Lindell received a plaque for gaining new members last year.

November roll call was read and Mrs. James Nesmith, whose devotion from Dec. 30-15 to 30 and called on "Thanksgiving." She presented a vocal solo and closed with prayer.

Mrs. Clara Black was committee chairman for the group that assembled gift containers for shutin members.

The next meeting Dec. 10 will be in charge of the veterans department.

Central WCTU Hears Reports

Central WCTU met in Dunham Parlor of First United Methodist Church for their November meeting. Mrs. William Muir, devotional leader, stressed the theme "Forward March."

The Union Signal had received letters from Vice President Hubert Humphrey and President-elect Richard Nixon and were read to members.

Mrs. Ruth Lindquist sang "A Charge to Keep I Have" and "All the Way He Leads Me," the solos being in memory of Mrs. Ruth Crooks.

Reports of the Erie convention were given by Mrs. Fay McInturff, president and Mrs. Iva Belle Richael. Miss Carter was welcomed as a new member.

Guide Post was given to the Veterans Hospital in Erie for Christmas. Members are to bring Christmas gifts for the Pennsylvania Girl's Home in December. Fifty-year certificates were given to Miss Edith Langdale of Warren and Miss Jessie Smith, now residing in Florida.

ISRAELI TOMATO SOUP: For a double rich chicken soup with "instant loving care," add a small can of tomatoes, chopped, with juice and a pinch of caraway seeds to a 10 1/2 ounce can condensed chicken broth. Pass a platter of hot garlic French bread. Mmm, Mmm, great!

Philomel Club Hears Program

Mrs. James Cunningham, chairman, presiding at Wednesday's meeting of Philomel Club, opened the program with an interesting summary of the life of "Sallieri-Master Teacher," topic for the day. This was the second in a series on the year's theme—"Teachers Through the Ages."

Antonio Sallieri, an Italian composer, conductor and teacher, came under Baroque style influence which was responsible for new forms of secular and liturgical music, especially the opera and the oratorio. Leaving Italy at an early age, he went to Vienna where, in 1770, he won his first success with a comic opera "Le Donne Letterate." He produced nine operas in the next four years.

In Vienna, as time went on, he enjoyed great reknown as a teacher with Beethoven, Schubert and Liszt studying with him. His style was also extensively imitated in Germany. Later he went to Paris to win great fame with the first performance of his opera "Tartare."

His composition included 40 operas, 11 cantatas, six masses, four oratorios, ballet music, two symphonies and two piano concertos besides various other instrumental works.

The musical portion of Wednesday's program featured compositions of Sallieri's great students. Mrs. James Potter played "Sonata-Opus 14-No. 2" by Beethoven, who dedicated three of his compositions to Sallieri.

Mrs. Francis Ericsson sang "Evening Violets" by Schubert, the great German composer and two songs, "O Lovely Star" and "Dedication" by Schumann, also a German composer.

Mrs. Charles Eaton offered "Sonata-No. 27-Opus 90" by Beethoven and dedicated to Count Moritz von Lichnowsky, a personal friend. Mrs. Jacob Levinson and Mrs. Harry Kopf Jr. concluded with Schubert's

"Fantasia-F Minor" a two-piano number. In a brief business session members voted to begin meetings at 2 p.m. instead of a half-hour later as in the past.

The social hour committee included Mrs. Marvin Billow, chairman, Mrs. John McInturff, Mrs. Melvin Ahlgren, Mrs. Norman Johnson, Mrs. Stephen Laurich, Mrs. Stuart Lyon, Mrs. R. G. Smith and Mrs. John McFate. Mrs. T. K. Larson and Mrs. John Buettas presided at the tea table centered with an arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums, cat tails and autumn leaves.

Auxiliary Meets To Hear Program

The Woman's Auxiliary to Warren County Medical Society met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Robert Donaldson. Associate hostesses were Mrs. R. A. Peters, Mrs. W. S. Fin-ken, Mrs. A. J. O'Connor and Mrs. J. Ley.

Larry Haupt of Gorton's Flower Shop demonstrated flower arrangements and holiday decorations.

Final plans were presented for a Christmas party with invitations extended to the wives of county dentists and pharmacists.

Auxiliary members on Thursday assisted in health career conferences conducted at Warren General Hospital.

Instead of both vegetable and potato dishes for supper tonight, make this vegetable-macaroni casserole. In 1-quart casserole toss 1 package (10 ounces) frozen mixed vegetables, cooked and drained, with 2 cups cooked shell macaroni and 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce with cheese. Combine 1/2 cup fresh bread crumbs and 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine; sprinkle over vegetables. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I was wondering if anyone else had ever thought of lining their full-length draperies with a plastic opaque shower curtain? I did just this and it certainly helped to keep the drapes from fading or getting stains from the sweating windows.

The lightweight, inexpensive shower curtain is perfect. And they come in many colors.

One shower curtain was ample for six single-width draperies. Sure saved me money. Dot

DEAR HELOISE:

We bought a new sports car this past summer. Being used to a full front seat, I found I had no place to lay gloves, letters or purse, except on the dashboard or by my side. So I found a cardboard box that just fits in between the bucket seats, and covered it with adhesive-backed paper. I used black as the inside of our car is all black.

Now I have the handiest catch-all box you ever saw. All neat as a pin.

Mrs. George Daniels

DEAR HELOISE:

I like to keep my perfume and cologne in their original boxes to protect the contents from the light.

So I cut off the bottom of each box and set it back over the bottle. Now I can quickly lift the pretty box off, use my cologne and slip the box back over it.

Opening lead: Queen of ♠
A desperate situation gave birth to a brilliant defensive maneuver by West against South's three no trump contract. West contrived to paint a false picture for the declarer, which started the latter on his way to defeat.

The one no trump response by South is the indicated procedure with nine points and balanced distribution, inasmuch as the spade suit is not considered biddable. North's raise to game is routine, for he has 19 high card points plus intermediate cards and an establishable five card suit.

West opened the queen of spades and the king was played from dummy. A small diamond was led at trick two and declarer put up the queen from his hand. With a smooth motion untrayed by the least flicker of hesitation, West played the three of diamonds. On the next lead from the closed hand, West followed with the ten, and South—who had no reason to suspect the actual situation—ducked in dummy hoping that East had started with the doubleton ace.

East was in with the jack of diamonds, and he returned a spade to dummy's ace. Since South had only eight top tricks, he led another diamond to drive out the ace. West had carefully preserved that card for a late entry, and he was in to cash a sufficient number of spade tricks to send the declarer down to defeat.

Observe that, if West wins the first diamond lead, he can subsequently be retired from the play. After the spade suit is cleared, South reenters his hand to lead another diamond, and the trick is ducked around to East's jack. The later is unable to put his partner in, and declarer cashes sufficient diamond tricks to make four no trump.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — A day of great activity for most. Others are watching their interests avidly; so should you, in detailed, conscientious fashion. TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Venus still excellently placed. Tailor methods and moves wisely to fit occasion. If stresses arise, ease off sufficiently to judge more clearly.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Good aspects should cheer you who are advancing creditably toward rightly predetermined goals. Ambition and patience a potent combination.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Do not panic if things seem wrong, out of hand. That's when a serene, calm mind and level-headed analysis are important. Never lose perspective, humor or compassion.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Subscribe to activities that portray your true way of life, depict favorably your superior methods and top-flight ideas.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Study your routine. Align duties in order of precedence. Knit together talents and opportunities to satisfy demands, in all, keep within the scope of your ability.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Venus beneficent. Take advantage of the situation. Don't expect the unreasonable in return, however. Avoid extremes; be happy. No need to rush; things can work out surprisingly well.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23) — You are not the type to give up. And others depend upon you, your admoitions. Family, loved ones lean on you for advice, encouragement. Don't fail them.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — You should be, basically, are, thankful for your privileges. Serve well in YOUR best capacity. Never sell good will short. Business matters sponsored.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Be patient with others. Precise observations, painstaking attention to "little" tasks will help you. Clarify "cloudy" areas.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — The failure of a procedure usually lies in the analyzing, long before execution of it occurs. This is true in both home and business affairs. Show your inborn skill.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — Again stressed: Building a store of knowledge before the imagination is given carte blanche. Refer to knowing heads; appreciation and stur structure is in the making.

YOU BORN TODAY? A Scorpio-Sagittarian cuspal, with the former sign descending and the latter rising at your birth, are endowed with some of the most powerful characteristics to be found in the entire roster of zodiacal natives. You are a natural leader with a flair for the unusual; are capable, competent, extremely enterprising, and your versatility and generosity are outstanding. Your talents lie in many directions and you could succeed as a topflight business executive, lawyer, jurist, statesman, or, in the creative world, as a musician. In fact, you may, if otherwise occupied for a living, take up music as an avocation. Birthdate of: Mary Ann Cross (George Eliot), renowned English novelist, poet; Geraldine Page, actress.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(© 1968 By The Chicago Tribune)

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

HEART RESEARCH

Each advance in heart research brings man one step closer to immortality. This thought crosses my mind every time I attend the American Heart Association meetings. We can expect to live longer because more is being accomplished against the No. 1 cause of death—heart disease.

Transplants, cardiac pacemakers, surgical progress, the prevention of rheumatic fever, and our increasing knowledge of factors that help or harm the heart all prolong years but do not prevent death. The grim reaper has an ace in the hole and, if and when heart disease is no longer a threat, cancer or accident may take first place.

But overcoming the heart's frailties will do more than lengthen our life span. The youngster with congenital heart defects or valvular leakage due to rheumatic fever will be happier and more comfortable.

Our senior citizens will be able to carry on without fear of heart attacks or incapacity due to angina pectoris. Retirement will become enjoyable and not the beginning of the end.

The control of cardiac disease has other implications. There are millions of married couples in the United States. Death will disrupt many of these families and the surviving husband or wife will be confronted with a variety of new problems.

Loss of spouse is most serious when a father with young children is taken. Death also is a catastrophe when it occurs late in life, separating a devoted couple who had been married for 30 or 40 years. Heart disease claims so many men that there is a "spare your husband" movement afoot among wives.

TOMORROW: Deadly Boredom.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

CHILDREN WITH ULCERS

R.C. writes: Have you heard of many 6-year-old girls with peptic ulcer?

REPLY

Ulcers are no respecters of age, though they are more prevalent in adults. They should, however, be suspected when children develop abdominal pain and indigestion. The small fry, have worries and troubles, too. And although their problems are micro-size to an adult, to the youngster, they are macro-sized. Conversely, emotional problems are not the chief factor because infants also develop ulcers. In this respect, the cause of the disorder is not known.

QUININE FOR CRAMPS

A reader writes: The doctor prescribed quinine for my mother, who suffers from leg cramps at night. But my cousin, who served in World War II, says the army doctors refused to give quinine for this condition. Do you know why?

REPLY

Quinine was in short supply during the war. In addition, cramping of the calf in men of military age differs from the condition in oldsters.

Friday's TV Highlights

THE NAME OF THE GAME on Chs. 2, 6, and 12 at 8:30 p.m. finds Farrell trying to prove the innocence of a woman who shot and killed her husband, mistaking him for a prowler in "Ordeal".

MOVIE 4 TONIGHT on Ch. 4 at 9 p.m. is the area television premiere of "The Pawnbroker" starring Rod Steiger and Geraldine Fitzgerald. A pawnbroker who lost his family in Nazi terror, isolates himself in his Spanish Harlem pawnshop... but finds new terror and awakening emotions he sought to bury. Rod Steiger received a nomination for the Academy Award as best actor for this picture.

STAR TREK on Chs. 2, 6, and 12 at 10 p.m. presents "Plato's Stepchildren". Capt. Kirk, and Dr. Spock answer a distress call from Platonium, a planet whose inhabitants pretend to possess a sure democracy, but actually practice rule by force of mind.

REHEARSE PLAY

Rehearsals continue at Warren Player's Club headquarters as cast members for "The Odd Couple" prepare for a December 6 opening curtain at 8:30 p.m. at Beatty School auditorium. Peter Horne, left, a newcomer to the local stage, portrays Oscar, the divorced newspaper sportswriter, who lives in untidy grandeur in an eight-room apartment. Al Hilse, right, assumes the role of Felix, whose marriage has just broken up. Felix, seemingly on the verge of collapse, is invited to share Oscar's apartment — a move which results in an hilarious comedy. (Photo by Mahan)

Christmas Lights To Have Native Greens

When our local teenagers heard that there would be no greens on the lights which are strung across Main street for the holidays, they turned up at the Saturday workshop and volunteered to lend a hand in tying the greens because they felt it just wouldn't be the kind of Christmas they liked without some native greens.

and helped to tie on the greens brought in by John Christy.

The stringing of the lights was set for Sunday, Nov. 17 by the firemen who do the job each year. However they were rained out, now we have our fingers crossed for a clear day on Sunday, Nov. 24 for the stringing so that the lights may be turned on for Thanksgiving.

As we go to press, just one display has been put up on Main St. across from the C & M Market. The display task has been taken over this year by the Lions Club, who no doubt will be on the job Sunday along with the firemen so that all of our decorations will be ready by Nov. 28th.

Now that our teenagers have shown how sentimental they are about having the town look like an old-fashioned holiday season, we hope that each of them will act as a vigilante to see that none of the displays and home decorations are damaged by snatched bulbs which has happened in past years.

WCTU to Send Cards To Men in Service

At the Tuesday, Nov. 12 meeting of the WCTU, Mrs. Krug Cyphert volunteered to secure the names of all of our local men in service so that the group may send Christmas cards to all of them. To those in Vietnam they plan to send leaflets as well as cards.

Mrs. Eugene Sheldon and Mrs. Cyphert plan to secure gifts for our local shut-ins during the holidays.

Mrs. Virginia Taylor was hostess for the Tuesday meeting with Mrs. Cyphert in charge of devotions. Mrs. Arthur King reported that the leaflets which the group secured for distribution were ready and that she would see that the various local churches received copies.

A letter from the Warren State Hospital was read extending thanks to the group for clothing delivered there after its local rummage sale. (They also delivered two boxes to this correspondent to take to the used clothing center in the Endeavor Community building. This center is opened each Thursday evening. Anyone needing clothing, regardless of age or sex may go to this Center. There is no charge. Particularly needed are children's and men's clothing. A small library has been started there where any books or magazines are accepted.)

The next WCTU meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Eugene Sheldon on Tuesday, Jan. 14, 1969.

Have Baby Boy

Word was received here on Nov. 19 that Mr. and Mrs. Karl Grettenberger Jr. of San Diego, California had their fifth son born on Monday, Nov. 18. They also are the parents of five daughters.

Karl Jr. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Grettenberger of Fuller Ave., Warren.

Tidioute Garden Club Elects New Officers

New officers for 1969 were elected at the dinner meeting of the Tidioute Garden Club Tuesday, Nov. 19, held in the social rooms of the United Presbyterian Church.

The slate consists of Mrs. Guy (Ethel) Courson as president; Lester Noll first vice president; and Mrs. Harriette Courson, second vice president. Lisle Peters will serve as treasurer and Mrs. Edward Shanley as secretary.

During the business meeting three new members were announced — the Rev. and Mrs. Robert L. Zorn and Lois McCloskey. Also it was announced that there will be no December meeting . . . the next meeting to be Jan. 28, 1969.

Mrs. Hugh McGraw and her sister Mrs. Karl Johnson delighted the club members with an illustrated lecture using colored slides and souvenirs which they secured in Sweden when they visited there last year with their mother Mrs. Elizabeth Peterson who lives on Swede Road in Triumph Township.

At the close of the meeting there was an exchange of Christmas gifts.

Hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Noll, Mrs. Edna Moore and Mrs. Harriette Courson. Everyone enjoyed a covered dish dinner starting at 6:30 p.m.

Circle 3 Discusses Aid to Missionaries

Circle 3 of WCS met on Wednesday, Nov. 13 at the home of Mrs. Bernard King with Mrs. William Karns, Circle chairman in charge of the meeting. She announced a meeting of all three Circles of WCS to be held on Tuesday, Dec. 3 at 8 p.m. in the Methodist Church social rooms. All members are asked to bring Christmas cookies and their recipes to the meeting.

During the business meeting, the Circle members discussed possible aid to some of the church missionaries but no definite plans were made.

Mrs. Nellie Johnson who had charge of both devotions and the afternoon program, using "The Upper Room" leaflet, read from Matthew, chapter 6, verses 5-13, and ended with the Circle prayer.

For the program, her topic was "The Church Woman and Human Rights." It was covered with four points — Personal, Economic, Political and Social. The meeting closed with refreshments served by the hostesses, Mrs. King.

The next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 11 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Maurice McCarthy. There will be a gift exchange by the members.

ANCIENT RUINS PROBED

COIMBRA, Portugal (AP) — Archeologists are making rapid headway in uncovering the ruins of ancient Conimbriga, one of the largest Roman cities on the Iberian Peninsula.

The excavation of Conimbriga, 10 miles southeast of this central Portuguese university town, was begun at the end of the last century under the patronage of Queen Amelia of Portugal.

The place now has been discovered to have been built on top of an Iron Age settlement. It was razed by the invading Suevi tribes in 468 A.D.

The most recent important find was the main public baths. Previously a huge forum, villas and a temple foundation were uncovered.

ATTENTION ALL CAR OWNERS

WE LUV AUTOS

The appearance of your car is just as important as its running condition.

Would you like to have the finish of your car survive the winter elements? The answer to this question is, let Bonnie & Clyde, clean, glaze and paste wax your car. We guarantee you will receive the best wax job in town, and you will be satisfied.

Your car could be worth $100.00 or more in trade-in value with Bonnie & Clyde's complete reconditioning. This includes: vacuuming inside, clean, glaze, paste wax, finish, clean door jams, make scuff pads look like new, shampoo seats and carpets, wash all interior, wax all metal & chrome, clean motor, clean trunk, we will also touch up small chips and scratches.

WHY...

do stores encourage Christmas shopping before Thanksgiving?

It's a question often asked. It deserves a sincere answer!

Many people do not realize the problems which prompt early Christmas shopping promotions.

For example: This year there are 4 fewer shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas than there were last year.

There are other problems, too. And when all the reasons for the urge to "Shop Early" are examined, the most critical persons will agree that it's more than a problem for stores alone.

So, we're happy to take this opportunity to present some of the problems that confront all stores at holiday time.

Every successful store directs its best efforts toward perfecting a helpful service to all its customers. And since many customers ask stores to make it easier to complete gift shopping before the crowded post-Thanksgiving period, Christmas merchandise and displays are brought forward early to accommodate them.

And scarcely a major store in the nation could cope with the store traffic that would be generated if any part of early Christmas shopping was postponed until after Thanksgiving. Even under present circumstances most stores are strained to capacity during the peak season, to maintain the kind of service all shoppers have learned to expect.

When you recall the extremely crowded conditions of stores the final two or three weeks before Christmas the problem becomes evident. If everyone waited until December to shop, the number of extra personnel needed to cover the late rush would become so large that proper service would be practically impossible.

The same condition exists in regard to children's visits to Santa Claus. Thousands of children and their parents look forward to an annual visit with him, and unless he makes an early appearance, many hundreds would be disappointed, simply because it's physically impossible to reach him in a shorter time.

Those in business know that an extremely large percentage of Christmas gifts selected are items in plentiful supply throughout the year.

If you were to talk with your favorite merchant and his assistant, they would tell you that much of the stress and strain of Christmas could be relieved if the shopping public would anticipate Christmas all during the year.

Every store tries very hard to maintain its regular standards of customer service throughout the Christmas season. It can be done with much greater satisfaction for customers and friends, when shopping is spread over a greater period of time. And this, too, makes it much less of a task for those, who, for some reason, may not have a chance to plan ahead and select traditional gifts for their loved ones and friends.

We are certain that if storekeepers could chat with you, personally and informally, you would be convinced of their sincerity, and would commend their efforts to perform helpful service to their shopping public.

For these many reasons, we sincerely believe that you will welcome the suggestion to begin your Christmas shopping early . . . that you will find it easier, faster and thoroughly enjoyable.

So plan your Christmas shopping early . . . while selections are at their best . . . while you have lots of time to compare and choose wisely . . . while experienced knowledgeable sales people have the time to give you the good service you have a right to expect, to make your Christmas shopping a happy time.

Remember . . . there are 4 fewer shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas this year!
